Communications received from Member States invoking the provisions of Article IV.C, paragraph 8(c), of the Constitution

The General Conference,

Having considered the communications received from Argentina, Cape Verde, Central African Republic, Djibouti, Dominican Republic, Gambia, Iraq, Paraguay, Sao Tome and Principe, and Somalia invoking the terms of Article IV.C, paragraph 8(c), of the Constitution in order to obtain permission to take part in the voting at its 34th session,

Recalling the constitutional obligation of Member States to pay their contributions fully and on time,

Taking into account the history of payment of contributions in preceding years and previous requests for voting rights in the case of each of these Member States, as well as the measures proposed by them to eliminate their arrears,

Noting that the Dominican Republic and Cape Verde have subsequent to their requests paid the amounts required for voting rights in conformity with Article IV.C, paragraph 8(c), of the Constitution,

1. Considers that the failure of Argentina, Djibouti, Iraq, Paraguay, and Sao Tome and Principe to pay contributions for an amount exceeding the total due for the current year and the immediately preceding calendar year and/or instalments on payment plans is due to conditions beyond their control, and decides that these Member States may take part in the voting at the 34th session of the General Conference;

2. Further considers that the failure of the Central African Republic, Gambia and Somalia to pay contributions for an amount exceeding the total due for the current year and the immediately preceding calendar year and/or instalments on payment plans does not comply with the conditions laid down in Rule 83 of the Rules of Procedure of the General Conference, and consequently these Member States may not take part in the voting at the 34th session of the General Conference;

3. Invites the Director-General to report to the Executive Board at its 180th and 182nd sessions, as well as to the General Conference at its 35th session on the actual position concerning all payment plans agreed upon between UNESCO and Member States in arrears with their contributions.

Adoption of the agenda

At its 2nd plenary meeting, on 16 October 2007, the General Conference, having considered the provisional agenda drawn up by the Executive Board (34 C/1 Prov. Rev.), adopted that document. IV Preparation of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013

1 Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013

The General Conference, reaffirming the abiding validity and relevance of UNESCO's Constitution, especially its mandate to construct the defences of peace in the minds of all human beings, men and women, which must guide and inspire all action, programmes and activities by the Organization, emphasizing UNESCO's roles at the global, regional and country levels, conscious that contemporary problems are of an increasingly complex nature requiring multidisciplinary approaches and responses at the country, regional and global levels, recognizing that UNESCO is called upon to contribute to the unity of humankind by upholding human dignity, equality, international solidarity and dialogue, the culture of peace, tolerance, respect for human rights and democracy, underlining the particular importance of UNESCO contributing through its sectoral and thematic competencies to national development objectives and to United Nations reform and coherence, convinced that emerging challenges and a changing global environment require UNESCO to review periodically its priorities, strategies, approaches and programmes, as well as its structures, having examined the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4), which emerged from a broad-based consultation process, and the recommendations of the Executive Board thereon (34 C/11), 1. Notes that the Medium-Term Strategy, which offers a roadmap for UNESCO for the period 2008-2013, takes into account the results of the global consultations undertaken on the future role of UNESCO, as mandated by 33 C/Resolution 64; 2. Strongly endorses the mission statement for UNESCO contained in the Medium-Term Strategy: “As a specialized agency of the United Nations, UNESCO contributes to the building of peace, the eradication of poverty, sustainable development and intercultural dialogue through education, the sciences, culture, communication and information”; 3. Strongly endorses the relevance of the designation of “Africa” and “gender equality” as global priorities for UNESCO over the next six years; 4. Emphasizes that the urgent needs of the excluded and of vulnerable groups and the most disadvantaged regions and countries should be clearly addressed in all programme activities of the Organization, and that all efforts should be made by UNESCO to implement targeted action in favour of the least developed countries (LDCs), the small island developing States (SIDS), post-conflict countries, youth and indigenous people; 5. Endorses the five functions through which UNESCO will deliver its programme, namely, a laboratory of ideas, a standard-setter, a clearing house, a capacity-builder in Member States, and a catalyst for international cooperation; 6. Underlines the importance of South-South and North-South-South (triangular) cooperation for the implementation of UNESCO’s programmes; 7. (a) to implement the plan of action for Major Programme I, structured around the following two biennial sectoral priorities and four main lines of action, with special emphasis on the needs of Africa, gender equality, youth, LDCs and SIDS as well as the most vulnerable segments of society, including indigenous peoples, and reflecting actions to be undertaken under the relevant intersectoral platforms, in order to:

Biennial sectoral priority 1: Leading education for all (EFA) by ensuring global coordination and providing assistance to Member States to achieve the EFA goals and education-related Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) based on the Global Action Plan (GAP)

(i) ensure global leadership in EFA, coordination of United Nations priorities in education, and development of strong partnerships by mobilizing, harmonizing, aligning and complementing the unique added value of the EFA partners and other stakeholders at the global level to maintain their momentum and commitment to achieving the EFA goals and education-related MDGs, utilizing the rallying potential of the United Nations decades for literacy and education for sustainable development, including through the sharing of experiences, best practices and planned initiatives, and demonstrating this global coordinating leadership through the collective elaboration, adoption and implementation of the Global Action Plan by the four other EFA convening partners – UNDP, UNFPA, UNICEF and the World Bank –, by other intergovernmental organizations, national governments, bilateral donors, multilateral financial institutions, civil society organizations (CSOs), NGOs, the private sector, etc., and through South-South and North-South-South cooperation;

(ii) establish global and national frameworks and networks for capacity development in planning, monitoring and evaluation of education systems to ensure that UNESCO’s provision of capacity development and technical support in the successive stages of strategic planning and management of education systems – sector/subsector analysis, policy formulation and appraisal, action planning, monitoring and evaluation – is relevant and consistent; furthermore, support the development of evidence-based policies and approaches by policy-makers, planners and practitioners through a clearing house with a common platform as well as communities of interest to collect, disseminate, distribute and facilitate the exchange and sharing of knowledge and information on cutting-edge developments in the field of education and best practices in education management;

Biennial sectoral priority 2: Fostering literacy and quality education for all at all levels and through both formal and non-formal lifelong learning, with particular emphasis on Africa, gender equality, youth, LDCs, SIDS as well as the most vulnerable segments of society, including indigenous peoples, and education for sustainable development

(iii) promote policy dialogue, research, norms and standards – to develop the research agenda on issues relevant to access to and quality of lifelong learning, and to ensure successful completion by all learners. Convene intellectual platforms of experts on research findings and policy recommendations to be used to enrich the high-level policy dialogues at the global, regional, subregional and national levels, where UNESCO will organize consultations with a broad range of partners, especially on issues relating to literacy, quality of education, lifelong learning, education for sustainable development, and adult education, including in prisons and correctional facilities; furthermore, assist countries, when requested, in establishing legal frameworks at the national level and in networking to ensure the implementation of standard-setting instruments. UNESCO will work in partnership with a range of regional institutions and mechanisms to further the EFA agenda, particularly – in collaboration with the Africa Department – the African Union Commission and the New Partnership for Africa’s Development (NEPAD), and taking into account the outcomes of the forums of ministers of education in the various regions (e.g. MINEDARAB, COMEDAF, PRELAC, E-9, SEAMEO), and to mobilize in that regard triangular North-South-South cooperation;

(iv) provide capacity development and technical support to assist national efforts in achieving the Dakar goals – to improve country-level intervention, assisting Member States to expand access to education and to ensure that all learners may benefit from quality education, by seeking to ensure that actions at the national level are based on Member States’ needs identified through processes such as the UNESCO National Education Support Strategy (UNESS), to complement existing national development strategies and plans, as well as to ensure that the Organization functions in a fully coordinated and complementary manner in line with efforts to achieve

Further referring to 33 C/Resolution 38 “Promotion of dialogue among peoples (follow-up to 32 C/Resolution 30)”, indicating that particular importance should be attached to the development of universal global consciousness, free from racial, ethnic and social prejudices,

Reaffirming that in keeping with the spirit of the UNESCO Universal Declaration on Cultural Diversity, respect for the diversity of cultures, including traditions and beliefs, tolerance, dialogue and cooperation, in a climate of mutual trust and understanding, are among the best guarantees of international peace and security,

Being guided by a desire for continued support for the active efforts of the international community to intensify the dialogue among civilizations and to search for fresh perspectives in that regard,

   Biennial sectoral priority 1: Fostering free, independent and pluralistic communication and universal access to information

   (i) promote an enabling environment for freedom of expression and freedom of information, and to that end: maintain UNESCO’s active involvement in World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) discussions on the treaty on the protection of broadcasting organizations to ensure that the objectives of promotion of freedom of expression and access to information and knowledge are not hindered; provide advisory services for the establishment of internationally recognized standards in this regard; sensitize governments and public institutions to freedom of information and access to public information as components of good governance; promote the defence of freedom of the press as a fundamental human right, through the celebration of World Press Freedom Day, the award of the UNESCO-Guillermo Cano World Press Freedom Prize, the protection of the lives and the rights of media and information professionals, as well as the monitoring of developments in this regard, especially regarding impunity; support the development of editorially independent public service broadcasting accountability, and ethical and professional standards in journalism;

   (ii) foster universal access to information taking requisite measures, given the fact that the growing concentration of ownership of media and information and communication technology tools could jeopardize the actual implementation of universal access, and to that end: assist in the formulation of national information policy frameworks, in particular within the framework of the Information for All Programme (IFAP); support the preservation of analogue and digital documentary information through the Memory of the World Programme; establish policy frameworks and international standards to increase information literacy; monitor developments and foster the exchange of best practices with regard to the ethical dimensions of the information society, building on the priorities of IFAP; foster international partnerships for enhancing universal access to information; encourage the development of knowledge societies;

   (iii) promote the development of free, independent and pluralistic media, and to that end: foster media independence and pluralism, in particular through the International Programme for the Development of Communication (IPDC); build the capacities of media professionals through enhancing the quality of media training institutions; foster community access to information to increase opportunities for non-formal education and inclusive participation in development and in management of social transformations;

   (iv) strengthen the role of communication and information in fostering mutual understanding, peace and reconciliation, particularly in conflict and post-conflict areas, and to that end: support peacekeeping operations and reconstruction efforts, including legal reform processes, through building partnerships with the United Nations system, professional organizations and media non-governmental organizations; support the development of institutional and human capacities for the sustainable development of free, independent and pluralistic media in post-conflict as well as post-disaster countries; promote the use of media and ICTs to facilitate dialogue, reconciliation and peace-building;

   Biennial sectoral priority 2: Promoting innovative applications of ICTs for sustainable development

   (v) foster the development of infrastructures, and to that end: support the formulation of strategies, policies and best practices for the professional management of information; develop new approaches to knowledge dissemination and utilization, including through free and open source software; develop strategies and practices for the use of ICTs in support of Education for All goals; support innovative use of ICTs for disseminating scientific knowledge and preserving cultural expression;

   (vi) promote people’s participation in sustainable development through communication media, and to that end: strengthen inter-agency cooperation in communication for sustainable development, and participate in the elaboration of strategies to that effect within the United Nations common country processes, bearing in mind that sustainable development requires media with professional and ethical standards recognized by the media professionals themselves; broaden civic participation in media and improve media literacy among users; foster learning opportunities and the promotion of science knowledge through media and ICTs;

   (b) to allocate an amount of $12,682,900 for activity costs and $19,237,000 for staff costs;

The Participation Programme is one of the means employed by the Organization to achieve its objectives, through participation in activities carried out by Member States or Associate Members, or by territories, organizations or institutions, in its fields of competence. This participation is designed to strengthen the partnership between UNESCO and its Member States and make that partnership more effective through a sharing of contributions.
2. Priority under the Participation Programme will be given to proposals for the benefit of least developed countries (LDCs), developing countries and countries in transition.
3. Requests shall be submitted to the Director-General by the Member States through the National Commissions for UNESCO or, where there is no National Commission, through a designated government channel.
4. The projects or action plans submitted by the Member States under the Participation Programme must relate to the activities of the Organization, in particular to the major programmes, interdisciplinary projects, the activities on behalf of Africa, least developed countries, youth and women and the activities of the National Commissions for UNESCO. The selection of the Participation Programme projects will particularly take into account the priorities defined by the governing bodies for UNESCO’s regular programme.

The General Conference,

Scale of assessments

Recalling Article IX of the Constitution, which stipulates in paragraph 2 that the General Conference shall approve and give final effect to the budget and to the apportionment of financial responsibility among the Member States of the Organization,

Considering that the scale of assessments for Member States of UNESCO has always been based on that of the United Nations, subject to the adjustments necessitated by the difference in membership between the two organizations,

Resolves that:
(a) the scale of assessments of Member States of UNESCO for each of the years 2008 and 2009 shall be calculated on the basis of the scale or scales of assessment adopted by the United Nations General Assembly at its 61st session; the UNESCO scale or scales shall be established with the same minimum rate and the same maximum rate, all the other rates being adjusted to take into account the difference in membership between the two organizations in order to derive a UNESCO scale of 100%;
(b) if the United Nations General Assembly revises the scale for 2008 and 2009 at its 62nd and subsequent sessions, the revised scale will be adopted by UNESCO;
(c) new Members depositing their instruments of ratification after 16 October 2007 and Associate Members shall be assessed in accordance with the formulas set forth in 26 C/Resolution 23.1;
(d) rates of assessment for Member States shall be rounded off to the same number of decimal places as in the United Nations scale or scales; rates of assessment for Associate Members shall be rounded off to one additional decimal place, as necessary, in order to allow the effective reduction to 60% of the minimum rate of assessment for Member States stipulated in 26 C/Resolution 23.1.

1. Resolution adopted on the report of the Administrative Commission at the 20th plenary meeting, on 1 November 2007.
II

Currency of assessment and payment of contributions

Having examined the report of the Director-General on the currency of contributions of Member States (34 C/31),

Recalling Article 5.6 of the Financial Regulations, which stipulates that “Contributions to the budget shall be assessed partly in United States dollars and partly in euros in a proportion to be determined by the General Conference and shall be paid in these or other currencies as decided by the General Conference ...”,

Conscious of the need to reduce the exposure of the Organization to adverse currency fluctuation during 2008-2009,

1. Resolves, in respect of contributions for the years 2008 and 2009, that:
   (a) contributions to the budget shall be assessed on the basis of the approved scale of assessments as follows:
      (i) in euros – 57% of the budget calculated at the rate of $1 equal to €0.869;
      (ii) in United States dollars – the remainder of the amount of contributions to be paid by Member States;
   (b) contributions shall be paid in the two currencies in which they are assessed; nevertheless payment of the amount assessed in one currency may be made, at the choice of the Member State, in the other currency of assessment; unless the amounts assessed are received simultaneously and in full in the currencies in which they are assessed, credit shall be given against contributions due in proportion to the amounts assessed in both currencies, by the application of the United Nations operational rate of exchange between the United States dollar and the euro on the date on which the contribution is credited to a bank account of the Organization;
   (c) contributions to be assessed in euros for the financial period that remain unpaid at the time of assessment of contributions for the subsequent financial period shall be considered as due and payable in United States dollars thereafter, and for this purpose shall be converted into United States dollars using the euro rate of exchange that is most beneficial to the Organization, by reference to the following four options:
      (i) the constant rate of exchange of €0.869 to the dollar used to calculate the euro portion of assessed contributions for the biennium;
      (ii) the average United Nations operational rate of exchange for the euro during the biennium;
      (iii) the United Nations operational rate of exchange for the euro applicable for the month of December of the second year of the biennium;
      (iv) the United Nations operational rate for the euro applicable on 31 December of the second year of the biennium;
   (d) arrears of contributions from previous financial periods and arrears converted into annual instalments considered as due and payable in United States dollars, but received in a currency other than the United States dollar, shall be converted into United States dollars at either the most favourable rate which UNESCO can obtain for conversion of the currency in question into United States dollars on the market on the date on which the amount is credited to a bank account of the Organization or at the United Nations operational rate of exchange on the same date, whichever is more beneficial to the Organization;
   (e) when contributions are received in advance in euros for subsequent financial periods, such advance contributions shall be converted into United States dollars at the operational rate of exchange ruling on the date when payment is credited to a bank account of the Organization; all contributions received in advance shall be held in the name of the contributor in United States dollars, and credit shall be given against contributions due for the subsequent financial period in dollars and euros, in the proportion determined by the General Conference, using the operational rate of exchange prevailing on the date of dispatch of letters of assessment for the first year of the following financial period;
   Considering nevertheless that Member States may find it desirable to discharge part of their contributions in the currency of their choice,

2. Resolves that:
   (a) the Director-General is authorized, upon request from a Member State, to accept payment in the national currency of the Member State if he considers that there is a foreseeable need for that currency in the remaining months of the calendar year;
   (b) when accepting national currencies, the Director-General, in consultation with the Member State concerned, shall determine that part of the contribution which can be accepted in the national currency, taking into account any amounts requested for payment of UNESCO coupons; in such case the Member State concerned must make a global proposal;
   (c) in order to ensure that contributions paid in national currencies will be usable by the Organization, the Director-General is authorized to fix a time limit for payment, in consultation with the Member State concerned, after which contributions would become payable in the currencies mentioned in paragraph 1 above;
   (d) acceptance of currencies other than the United States dollar or the euro is subject to the following conditions:
Administrative and financial questions

(i) currencies so accepted must be usable, without further negotiation, within the exchange regulations of the country concerned, for meeting all expenditure incurred by UNESCO within that country;

(ii) the rate of exchange to be applied shall be the most favourable rate which UNESCO can obtain for the conversion of the currency in question into United States dollars at the date at which the contribution is credited to a bank account of the Organization; after translation into United States dollars, credit shall be given against contributions for 2008-2009 where appropriate in proportion to the amounts assessed in United States dollars and euros, in the manner specified in paragraph 1 above;

(iii) if, at any time within the 12 months following the payment of a contribution in a currency other than the United States dollar or the euro, there should occur a reduction in the exchange value or a devaluation of such currency in terms of United States dollars, the Member State concerned may be required, upon notification, to make an adjustment payment to cover the exchange loss pertaining to the unspent balance of the contribution; to the extent that the Director-General considers that there is a foreseeable need for that currency in the remaining months of the calendar year, he is authorized to accept the adjustment payment in the national currency of the Member State;

(iv) if, at any time within the 12 months following the payment of a contribution in a currency other than the United States dollar or the euro, there should occur an increase in the exchange value or a revaluation of such currency in terms of United States dollars, the Member State concerned may require the Director-General, upon notification, to make an adjustment payment to cover the exchange gain pertaining to the unspent balance of the contribution; such adjustment payments will be made in the national currency of the Member State;

3. Resolves further that any differences due to variations in the rates of exchange not exceeding $100 relating to the last payment against contributions due for the biennium in question, shall be posted to exchange profit and loss account.

IX Constitutional and legal questions

86 Directives concerning the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO

The General Conference,
Recalling 33 C/Resolution 89 and 174 EX/Decision 32,
Having examined document 34 C/26 “Directives concerning the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO”,
Having taken note of the report of the Legal Committee (34 C/74),
1. Approves the complete text of the Directives contained in the Annex to document 34 C/26, as amended;
2. Invites the Director-General:
   (i) to continue consultations with the Member States and their National Commissions in order to further develop and finalize appropriate modalities for the implementation of the Directives;
   (ii) to report to it regularly on progress in the implementation of the Directives, including as regards the assessment of the impact for UNESCO’s visibility of authorizations granted for the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO.

ANNEX
Directives concerning the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO

From 1 November 2007, the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO shall be subject to the following provisions:

I. Name, acronym, logo and Internet domain name of the Organization

I.1 Definitions

The full official name is: United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The name may be translated into any language.

The acronym is formed from the initials of the full name in English: UNESCO. It may be written in any characters.

The emblem or logo, which is used as the official seal, is shown below:

The Internet domain name of the Organization is “unesco.org”.

I.2 Protection

To the extent that the name, acronym and logo of UNESCO have been notified and accepted by the Paris Union Member States under the Article 6 ter of the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property, adopted in 1883 and revised at Stockholm in 1967, UNESCO has recourse to Paris Convention Member States’ domestic systems to prevent the use of the name, acronym or logo of UNESCO where such use falsely suggests a connection with UNESCO.

UNESCO may take measures against misuse of its name or acronym as Internet domain names under the Uniform Dispute Resolution Policy of the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN), or the procedures defined by national authorities and/or other competent bodies.

1. Resolution adopted on the report of the PRI Commission at the 19th plenary meeting, on 1 November 2007.
I. Rights of use

Only the General Conference and the Executive Board, i.e. the governing bodies, the Secretariat and the National Commissions for UNESCO have the right to use the name, acronym, logo and/or Internet domain names of UNESCO without prior authorization, subject to the rules set out by the Directives.

I.4 Authorization

Authorizing the use of the name, acronym and/or logo of UNESCO is the prerogative of the General Conference and the Executive Board. In specific cases as set out by the Directives, the governing bodies empower, by delegation, the Director-General and the National Commissions for UNESCO to authorize such use to other bodies. The power to authorize the use of the name, acronym, logo and/or Internet domain names of UNESCO may not be granted to other bodies.

Any decision authorizing the use of the name, acronym, logo and/or domain names of UNESCO shall be based on the following criteria: (i) relevance of the proposed association to the Organization’s strategic objectives and programme; and (ii) compliance with the values, principles and constitutional aims of UNESCO.

The use of the name, acronym, logo and/or domain name must be expressly authorized in advance and in writing, and must comply with the specified conditions and procedures, in particular with respect to its visual presentation, duration and scope.

II. Forms of use

II.1 Graphical standards of the name, acronym and logo

The UNESCO logo should be reproduced according to the graphical standards elaborated by the Secretariat, and should not be altered. Wherever possible, the full name of the Organization (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) should appear beneath the logo in the language(s) of the document, so as to affirm the Organization’s membership in the United Nations system and its specific fields of competence.

UNESCO’s logo may be associated with the logo or logos of subsidiary bodies, intergovernmental programmes, other organizations or specific events (linked logo).

To make the link with UNESCO precise and concrete, the linked logo should, wherever possible, include a phrase or an indication of how the entity or event in question is thus linked.

II.2 Registration and use of Internet domain names

At the international level

All generic extensions (gTLDs) shall be linked to the sole name of UNESCO’s active international domain: “unesco.org”. The referenced Internet site at that address is managed by the Secretariat. Only a staff member duly authorized by the Director-General may register domain names under the existing or future generic extensions.

At the national level

National extensions (ccTLDs) afford an opportunity to highlight the presence of UNESCO in each country. Internet domain names should be, wherever possible, registered under national extensions or sub-extensions by the National Commissions and point towards the Internet site of the National Commission where it exists, or towards the “unesco.org” site, in order to avoid registration by third parties.

Policy on combined domain names

As the possibilities for registering Internet domain names associating the six letters of UNESCO’s name with any letter(s) or symbol(s) are practically unlimited, the Organization shall not officially recognize any site operating with such domain names. To reference the Internet sites of bodies or of projects linked with the Secretariat or National Commissions, practices consisting of giving the names of official domains should be fostered. The Secretariat, National Commissions and/or other competent bodies shall take all appropriate measures to prevent third parties not expressly authorized from registering and using such combined domain names.

III. Role of the governing bodies and of the Director-General

III.1 Role of the governing bodies

III.1.1 Authorization

The General Conference and the Executive Board authorize the use of the name, acronym or logo of UNESCO by means of resolutions and decisions, notably in the case of intergovernmental programmes, programme networks, bodies under the auspices of UNESCO (for example, category 2 centres), official partners, global or regional prizes, and special events in the Member States.

The governing bodies should ensure that their resolutions and decisions stipulate the terms of the authorization granted, in accordance with the Directives.

The governing bodies may ask the Director-General to put specific cases of authorization before them and/or submit to them an occasional or regular report on specific cases of use and/or of authorization, notably concerning the granting of patronage, partnerships and commercial use.

III.1.2 Protection

The governing bodies should ensure that the regulations governing the intergovernmental programmes, programme networks, and bodies under the auspices of UNESCO are in harmony with these Directives.

In specific cases, the governing bodies may ask the Director-General to monitor the proper use of the name, acronym and logo of UNESCO, and to initiate proceedings against abusive use where appropriate.
III.2 Role of the Director-General

III.2.1 Authorization

In the context of programme execution, only the Director-General is empowered to approve for any activity or entity of the Secretariat, including inter-agency activities, the creation of a specific logo that should always be associated with the logo of UNESCO.

The Director-General is empowered to authorize the use of UNESCO’s name, acronym or logo notably in connection with patronage, the appointment of goodwill ambassadors, and other personalities promoting the Organization and its programmes, such as Artists for Peace or Sports Champions, and also contractual arrangements and partnerships, as well as specific promotional activities, provided that in each case the grantee uses a phrase or indication of how the entity or activity in question is thus linked.

The Director-General may decide to put specific cases of authorization before the governing bodies.

III.2.1.1 Criteria and conditions for the granting of UNESCO’s patronage

UNESCO’s patronage may be granted to various kinds of activities, such as cinematographic works and other audiovisual productions, publications, the holding of congresses, meetings and conferences, the awarding of prizes, and, also, other national and international events.

Criteria applicable to all activities under patronage:
(i) Impact: Patronage may be granted to exceptional activities likely to have a real impact on education, science, culture or communication, and significantly enhance UNESCO’s visibility.
(ii) Reliability: Adequate assurance should be obtained concerning those in charge (professional experience and reputation, references and recommendations, legal and financial guarantees) and the activities concerned (political, legal, financial and technical feasibility).

Conditions applicable to the granting of patronage:
(i) UNESCO’s patronage is granted in writing exclusively by the Director-General.
(ii) In the case of national activities, the decision regarding the granting of UNESCO’s patronage is made on the basis of obligatory consultations with the National Commission of the Member State in which the activity is held and the National Commission of the Member State in which the body responsible for the activity is domiciled.
(iii) The Organization and the National Commission(s) concerned must be able to participate actively in the preparation and execution of the activities concerned.
(iv) The Organization must be afforded an appropriate degree of visibility, notably through the use of its name, acronym and logo.
(v) Patronage may be granted to individual activities or to activities which take place regularly. In the latter case, the duration must be fixed and the authorization renewed periodically.

III.2.1.2 Contractual arrangements

Any contractual arrangement between the Secretariat and outside organizations involving an explicit association with those organizations (for example, in the framework of partnerships with the private sector or civil society, co-publication or co-production agreements, or contracts with professionals and personalities supporting the Organization) must include a standard clause stipulating that any use of the name, acronym or logo must be approved previously in writing.

Authorizations accorded under such contractual arrangements must be limited to the context of the designated activity.

III.2.1.3 Commercial use

The sale of goods or services bearing the name, acronym, logo and/or Internet domain name of UNESCO chiefly for profit shall be regarded as “commercial use” for the purpose of the Directives. Any commercial use of the name, acronym, logo and/or Internet domain names of UNESCO, alone or in the form of a linked logo, must be expressly authorized by the Director-General, under a specific contractual arrangement.

III.2.2 Protection

The Director-General ensures that the terms and conditions of patronage, the nomination of goodwill ambassadors and other personalities promoting the Organization, such as Artists for Peace or Sports Champions, and also contractual arrangements and partnerships with outside organizations, are in line with the Directives.

The Director-General is responsible for instituting proceedings in the case of unauthorized use or registration at the international level of the name, acronym, logo and/or Internet domain names of UNESCO in generic extensions (gTLDs).

IV. Role of the Member States and their National Commissions

IV.1 Competent bodies

The National Commissions for UNESCO, except where another body has been designated by the Member States, are the competent body to deal with questions relating to the use at the national level of the name, acronym, logo or Internet domain names of UNESCO in national extensions or sub-extensions (ccTLDs), in accordance with national laws.
IV.2 Rights of use

National Commissions have the right to use the name, acronym and logo of UNESCO in conformity with these Directives. If they do so, UNESCO’s name, acronym and/or logo are always associated with their own name and, if they so desire, with their specific logo. The use by National Commissions of UNESCO’s logo is strongly encouraged.

IV.3 Authorization

In the framework of the intergovernmental programmes, the programme networks or the Clubs, Centres and Associations for UNESCO movement, the National Commissions, in keeping with their role as liaison bodies recognized by the Constitution, or the other bodies designated in conformity with point IV.1 above, have the right to authorize the use of UNESCO’s name, acronym or logo, but only in the form of a linked logo – which shall specify the identity of the programme or movement concerned and must therefore be in compliance with the specific regulations of the given entities, networks or programmes. This concerns, inter alia, the national committees of intergovernmental programmes, biosphere reserves, associated schools or UNESCO Chairs, as well as Clubs, Centres or Associations for UNESCO and their national coordinating bodies.

When granting their own patronage to national activities, National Commissions can authorize organizations working in UNESCO’s fields of competence to use UNESCO’s name, acronym and/or logo always in association with the National Commissions’ own name and, if they so desire, their own logo, according to the provisions of point IV.2 above. The same applies to contractual arrangements and promotional activities which they enter into or conduct in their own name, at the national level.

National Commissions may establish time limits and/or conduct periodic reviews related to authorizations granted by them. National Commissions have the right to withdraw their authorizations.

IV.4 Protection

National Commissions, or other bodies designated in conformity with point IV.1 above, are responsible for the consequences arising out of the authorizations granted by them.

To achieve the objectives of these Directives, the provisions of national legislations and/or of the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property are to be taken into consideration.

The Secretariat and the Member States, through their National Commissions or other designated bodies, should closely cooperate, in order to prevent any unauthorized use of UNESCO’s name, acronym, logo or Internet domain names at the national level, in liaison with competent national bodies and in line with these Directives.

V. Amendment of the Directives

These Directives may only be amended by the General Conference.

   (d) regularly conduct impact reviews of UNESCO’s programmes at the global, regional and country levels, and include in statutory reports explicit findings geared to the different target audiences;

Item 3.2  Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5)

45. At its sixth meeting, the Commission examined item 3.2 – Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5).
46. The representatives of 16 Member States and three non-governmental organizations took part in the debate.

General debate on item 3.1 – Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013

47. ADG/BSP recalled the earlier informal discussions at the interdisciplinary meeting, the conclusions of which are summarized in document 34 C/INF.18. He explained that the Executive Board discussed draft document 34 C/4 at its 176th session and made a number of recommendations contained in document 34 C/11. The Director-General had endorsed these recommendations, and hence, it was suggested to use document 34 C/11 as the basis for discussion.

48. ADG/BSP referred to paragraph 3 of document 34 C/11, which spells out the new mission statement for UNESCO, where education is one of the main pillars. Africa and gender equality have been designated as the only global priorities for UNESCO. He drew attention to the five overarching objectives for the entire Organization and the related 14 strategic programme objectives, all of which were cast in an intersectoral perspective. ADG/BSP explained that in order to ensure a seamless transition between the strategy and the biennial programme and budget for 2008-2009, the strategic programme objectives were translated into a limited number of biennial sectoral priorities under each major programme, a limited number of main lines of action and related expected results and performance indicators. He also highlighted the innovative approach by including a section on management for impact, seeking to apply a results-based programming and management approach, improve the quality of programme delivery, efficiency, effectiveness, accountability and transparency.

49. Delegates expressed their appreciation for the greater concentration and focus of the Organization’s activities around clearly identified strategic objectives and for the choice of the two strategic objectives retained for education. They welcomed the general orientation of Major Programme I, stressing that the timely achievement of the EFA goals should remain the first and foremost priority, with particular emphasis on quality education for sustainable development. Education for peace, science education, human rights and arts education, as well as multilingualism and the use of mother tongue education were considered to be important aspects of quality education which deserved more attention. A number of speakers wished to see UNESCO’s action strengthened in rural education, technical and vocational education and higher education.

50. Several delegations considered that further sustained efforts needed to be conducted to increase the scope and visibility of UNESCO’s efforts in leading the United Nations Decade on Education for Sustainable Development (DESD) (2005-2014). Some speakers felt that the United Nations DESD should be a more pronounced priority for UNESCO’s action.

51. All delegates welcomed that Africa was given priority status in the Medium-Term Strategy and commended UNESCO’s efforts in favour of this region. Several delegates also expressed their satisfaction with the targeted action UNESCO is proposing to undertake in favour of specific groups, namely the LDCs, the SIDS and youth.

52. There was equally unanimous support for the emphasis attached to gender equality as a global priority. Some speakers underlined the need for gender relevant indicators, and recommended that UNESCO consider the important role of women and the challenges of gender equality in all its areas of competence. With regard to box 3 in the document on priority gender equality, one delegate wished that a specific reference be made to gender disparities as well as to the need to capture and share good practices.

53. In his response to the debate, ADG/BSP expressed his appreciation for the many supportive comments given to the document and assured delegates of the firm commitment of the Organization towards the two global priorities, Africa and gender equality.

General debate on item 3.2 – Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5)

54. Mr Jean-Yves Le Saux, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Strategic Planning, introduced the item, in accordance with the provisions of 29 C/Resolution 87 of the General Conference. He emphasized that the 2010-2011 Programme and Budget (35 C/5) would constitute the second biennium of the next Medium-Term Strategy (34 C/4) and would therefore need to be prepared in close connection with the overarching objectives and strategic programme objectives of the Organization. He introduced document 34 C/7 and highlighted a range of issues for possible discussion.

55. Many delegates stressed the rolling nature of the Medium-Term Strategy, and the need for ensuring a continuation between the Medium-Term Strategy and the future Programme and Budget. They welcomed a continuation of the current structure, namely a limited number of biennial sectoral priorities and main lines of action, linked to a series of intersectoral platforms. A number of delegations called for further concentration of expected results and wished to see better focus in the future C/5 document, particularly with regard to the results expected under MLA 4.

56. Several delegates stressed the need for continued application of a results-based programming approach, and for further improvement in the reporting on the results attained, especially in the C/3 document, and including qualitative results. It was also suggested that sunset clauses should be formulated in document 35 C/5 to allow the termination of programmes or projects, and that regular programme and extrabudgetary resources should be better linked.
57. Several delegates stressed the need for better reflection of the United Nations reform and United Nations-wide coherence at the global, regional and country level. In relation to decentralization, one delegate called for a reflection on ways to strengthen field offices, and the regional bureaux in particular. It was reminded that field offices and National Commissions were at the frontline of the implementation of programmes, and in this respect, more resources needed to be allocated to the cluster and national offices.

58. Delegates generally expressed support for a continuation of the two priorities, Africa and gender equality. It was recommended to also maintain targeted interventions in favour of least developed countries and small island developing States. It was also suggested to increase resources allocated to youth.

59. Member States acknowledged progress made towards attaining the Education for All Goals. It was stressed that education for all should remain the priority of Major Programme I, with a shift of focus from access to quality of education, both in formal and non-formal settings. The results of the EFA Mid-Decade review should inform future action of UNESCO and its Member States.

60. The role of UNESCO in the global coordination of EFA was emphasized, and the need to focus on the least developed countries and the most marginalized groups, particularly the disabled and the linguistic minorities was reiterated. Several delegates reaffirmed the need to strike the balance in UNESCO’s intervention between the different levels of education: primary, secondary and higher education. Several delegates emphasized the need for continued commitment towards Education for Sustainable Development and the leadership role of UNESCO in DESD. A number of speakers wished to see the challenge of education in relation to climate change clearly articulated in the future C/S document.

61. A large number of delegations stressed the need for further reinforcement of UNESCO’s Teacher Training Initiative for Sub-Saharan Africa (TTISSA) to improve the quality of teaching and teacher training; the role in and contribution of NGOs to TTISSA were emphasized. Support was also expressed for the Literacy Initiative for Empowerment (LIFE) and technical and vocational education and training. South-South cooperation was considered as key for achieving the EFA Goals.

62. The Deputy Director of BSP expressed his appreciation of the rich debate and noted the great convergence of views among delegates concerning the continuation and further deepening of the current approaches. He recalled that Member States would also have the opportunity to express their views in the course of the 2008 consultations.

Item 3.1 Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4)

8. At its first meeting on 23 October 2007, the Commission examined item 3.1 – Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4). Thirty-seven Member States and one observer took the floor on this item.

9. The item was introduced by the representative of the Director-General, ADG/BSP, who also recalled the earlier informal discussions at the interdisciplinary meeting, the conclusions of which are summarized in document 34 C/INF.18. He explained that the Executive Board discussed draft document 34 C/4 in its 176th session and made a number of recommendations contained in document 34 C/11. The Director-General had endorsed these recommendations, and hence, it was suggested to use document 34 C/11 as the basis for discussion.

10. ADG/BSP referred the Commission to paragraph 3 of document 34 C/11 which spells out the new mission statement for UNESCO, where science is one of the main pillars. Africa and gender equality have been designated as the only global priorities for UNESCO. He drew attention to the five overarching objectives for the entire Organization and the related 14 strategic programme objectives, all of which were cast in an intersectoral perspective. ADG/BSP explained that in order to ensure a seamless transition between the Strategy and the biennial Programme and Budget for 2008-2009, the strategic programme objectives were translated into a few biennial sectoral priorities under each major programme, with a limited number of main lines of action and related expected results and performance indicators. He also highlighted the inclusion of a new section on “Managing for Impact”, which focuses on results-based programming and management and deals with a number of financial and administrative considerations aiming at improving the quality of programme delivery, efficiency, effectiveness, accountability and transparency.

11. Delegates commended the Secretariat and the Executive Board for their tireless efforts on the drafting of the Medium-Term Strategy (C/4 and C/11 documents) that will guide UNESCO’s activities and interventions for the next six years. They acknowledged the efforts to respond to the directions given by the last General Conference, and welcomed the clear statement of overarching and strategic programme objectives, the designation of Africa and gender equality as the only global priorities throughout the period of the Medium-Term Strategy, the specific and targeted interventions envisaged for youth, LDCs and SIDS, as well as the attention to results-based management and the culture of evaluation. One delegate was of the view that, despite improvements, a yet tighter focus on measurable expected outcomes appears desirable and emphasized the need for descriptive indicators to facilitate the assessment of achievements.

12. Appreciation was also expressed for the focus on key issues such as sustainable development, climate change, access to fresh water and disaster preparedness. Many speakers felt that the Draft Medium-Term Strategy has evolved into a better direction through its theme-based approach and suggested that future C/5 documents should further refine this thematic programme approach. There was equally unanimous endorsement of the emphasis placed on the role of UNESCO in supporting countries in their efforts to build national capacities for science, technology and innovation and to strengthen national research systems. Overall, the Commission considered that the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 represents a distinct improvement from past strategies and provides a solid basis and a satisfactory framework for UNESCO’s work over the next six years, as actions contemplated in draft document 34 C/4 have the potential to contribute to peace, poverty alleviation, sustainable development and intercultural dialogue.

13. Two speakers expressed the view that the envisaged programme rather repeated the fragmented, unfocused structure of the previous C/4 document, thus reducing the impact of the Organization, that UNESCO was still trying to do too much with its limited resources and that the Organization would need to confront some difficult choices to make room for new initiatives with strong impact, if it were to regain credibility as a leading science organization within the United Nations family. Others also indicated that they would have liked to see more focus on the observations of the experts’ panel that reviewed MP II and MP III, and pointed to the critical importance for the science portfolio to be rigorously examined on a continuous and regular basis to determine which activities are marginal or duplicative of other international organizations’ endeavours. In this respect, the Secretariat was invited to develop further the mapping of the scientific activities of the United Nations system so as to enable Member States to make an informed judgement regarding the core competencies and the specific role of UNESCO in the field of science. Additionally, some Member States called for an expert and independent assessment of the natural sciences programmes as a standard professional practice in leading scientific institutions, with the aim of strengthening particularly effective programmes.

14. While praising the quality, consistency and scope of the planned actions which are based on UNESCO’s mandate and comparative advantages as well as on emerging challenges, several delegates agreed that the resulting expectations are not matched by the very limited resources at UNESCO’s disposal, both human and financial. Additional resources and partnerships were seen as necessary to bring science-based solutions to critical economic and social needs, and to enhance the role of science in promoting sustainable development. Accordingly, a greater integration of efforts with a wide range of actors and stakeholders was recommended, and UNESCO was encouraged to forge, strengthen or broaden partnerships with other organizations, including other United Nations institutions, international NGOs and professional organizations, as one effective means of catalysing larger efforts than it can alone oversee. The hope was also expressed that the programme laid out in the Medium-Term Strategy would be managed effectively and efficiently by prioritizing interventions and concentrating resources in implementing the programme to achieve each strategic objective.

15. There was a unanimous call for greater focus on institutional capacity-building, generating and sharing new knowledge and promoting free access to knowledge, providing assistance to Member States to develop appropriate science, technology and innovation policies, and dissemination of best practices. In this respect, support was expressed for UNESCO’s endeavours to promote the production, dissemination and use of scientific data and information concerning the Global Earth system and the sustainable use of natural resources in order to support evidence-based policies and decision-making. It was recalled that the outcome of research work made available to Member States for programmes such as IOC, IHP and MAB provided very important data and contributed significantly to the knowledge base in their respective fields. Several delegates emphasized that, in balancing between normative and operational activities, UNESCO should focus on policy advice and capacity-building and that special efforts must be made to sustain scientific capacity both at the individual and institutional levels. They considered that in order for UNESCO science programmes to make a significant difference, the Organization should act as a facilitator of global, regional- and country-level science policy development by improving the base of relevant scientific research knowledge and communicating that knowledge, by promoting policy work and participating in formulating policy advice, as well as by building country capacity in policy making and scientific monitoring and benchmarking.

16. Many delegates very strongly supported the targeting of UNESCO’s initiatives, notably with respect to fresh water, environmental protection, climate change, natural resources management, disaster mitigation, basic sciences, etc. The work of IOC was highly commended, particularly in moving forward the tsunami early warning systems, as well as IHP for its leading contribution towards the World Water Assessment Programme (WWAP) and for its research work on watersheds and aquifers, although a clearer view of UNESCO’s approach to the challenge of increasing the number of people with access to safe drinking water was called for by one Member State.

17. While acknowledging that water availability and water quality were primary factors in all ecological processes and that problems raised in relation to drinking water were of immense importance, many speakers emphasized that sustainable development needed to be considered as a whole, particularly with regard to the management of energy, climate change and biodiversity. In this connection, UNESCO’s endeavours to support developing countries in dealing with issues pertaining to environmental sustainability, including the formulation and implementation of policies for environmental management and the use of applied research for environmental and sustainable development to address issues of poverty reduction, were welcomed.

18. On the issue of climate change, UNESCO was urged to use the extensive knowledge gained from its longstanding environmental programmes (MAB, IHP, IOC and IGCP) and its unique mandate in the United Nations system with regard to the social and human sciences to assist developing countries, particularly in Africa, to formulate policies and strategies for adaptation to climate change. The view was expressed that there was enormous but unrealized potential for UNESCO to make substantial progress in environmental sustainability and issues of climate change, as it had access to a large external array of natural, material and intellectual assets within its four major environmental programmes, notably through their national committees, the UNESCO/IHE Institute for Water Education, the relevant category 2 centres and UNESCO Chairs and networks, which collectively represent an enormous resource for the Organization. If strategically reoriented and coordinated, at national and regional levels, these programmes could produce targeted research and monitoring that would achieve new understanding and enable critical policy recommendations to optimize action.

19. In the area of disaster preparedness and mitigation, some delegates considered that UNESCO still needed to determine its specific role in the implementation of the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005-2015, more especially in the cross-cutting areas of knowledge management, education and information for disaster preparedness.

20. It was observed that human impact on global environment had not only seriously affected fundamental ecological processes but also ecological services for societies and, in consequence, peaceful coexistence. In several interventions, desertification was highlighted as the main environmental problem in dry lands and a major threat to sustainable development, as it had a very adverse impact on economic development and food security, caused poverty and triggered conflict over use of natural resources. Consequently, UNESCO was invited to strengthen programmes aimed at assisting Member States to address this important issue, if it is to reach its strategic objectives as set out in the proposed Medium-Term Strategy.

21. The fundamental role of science education in capacity-building in science and technology was also emphasized. However, while recognizing that improving curricula and content of science education was needed most, several speakers stressed that training of good quality science teachers would also be critical and that lifelong education of teachers was a key issue in enhancing the quality of science and technology education. Likewise, building human and institutional capacities in the basic sciences, energy and engineering was deemed of critical importance for sustainable development. Renewable energy was considered as a key issue for sustainable development and climate change, especially in the case of Africa where the majority of the population was living without access to modern energy services. Pointing to the need for basic research on future energy sources as well as on sustainable use and sound management of desertification, some delegates indicated that this could not be carried out without solid knowledge and experience of the basic and engineering sciences. They noted that the basic sciences and the engineering sciences were building blocks for the emergence of core capacities for sustainable development. Hence, IBSP had an important role to play in this regard and, as set out in its new strategy, should focus on promoting science education and institutional capacity-building rather than supporting isolated projects.

22. Throughout the debate, there was a strong emphasis on interdisciplinarity. Delegates welcomed the integration of the ongoing and planned activities in a comprehensive and substantively appropriate manner through promotion of an intersectoral and interdisciplinary approach in addressing complex global challenges that goes beyond the current framework of programmes and sectors of UNESCO. They indicated, however, that in the implementation of the Medium-Term Strategy, it would be necessary to achieve a further integration of efforts in order to ensure coherence of the Organization’s action where it involved several programme sectors. Sustainable development was mentioned as an area in which all sectors ought to cooperate, especially the two science sectors. Concrete and tangible manifestations of such cooperation should allow tackling important intersectoral issues, such as the cultural dimensions of the transition to sustainable development.

23. As to the global priorities of the C/4 document, all speakers expressed the hope that the priority placed on Africa, gender equality and women’s empowerment will lead to concrete and convincing results during the forthcoming years. Several speakers called for increased participation of women in science, technology and research through provision of scholarships, grants and awards and, more generally, for greater emphasis on women and youth in science, considering that they constitute the building blocks that would enable the transformation of developing economies into knowledge-based economies. Addressing the needs of Africa, all delegations commended UNESCO’s continued commitment to support the initiative of the African Union on science, technology and innovation for the sustainable development of the continent, and took note that UNESCO was recognized as a strategic partner for the implementation of the NEPAD Science and Technology Consolidated Plan of Action, in particular for establishing regional network centres of excellence.

24. Member States finally noted that the Medium-Term Strategy was conceived as a rolling strategy to enable the General Conference to make midstream adjustments every two years, if required by external and other circumstances and developments. It was deemed that the possibility to reconsider document 34 C/4 in 2009 would certainly contribute to increasing the effectiveness of UNESCO’s working methods. This should also offer an opportunity to take stock of the sciences review implementation plan.

25. In his response to the debate, ADG/BSP expressed his appreciation for the many supportive comments given to the document and reassured delegates of the firm commitment of the Organization towards interdisciplinarity as well as towards the two global priorities, Africa and gender equality. ADG/SC indicated that efforts for concentrating the programme will be sustained and intensified, starting with the forthcoming preparation of the work plans for the first biennial period of the Medium-Term Strategy. He also informed the Commission that the Sector is currently looking into more quantifiable approaches to capacity-building that transcend all the sciences programmes, so that impact can be more precisely measured.

Recommendations of the Commission concerning other draft resolutions not retained for adoption in extenso

30. The Commission informed the General Conference that the draft resolutions listed below for paragraph 02000 were not retained for inclusion in extenso in the records of the General Conference.

31. 34 C/DR.6 (Islamic Republic of Iran) – The draft resolution proposes adding “and category 2 water-related institutes and centres” at the end of subparagraph (i). The financial implications of the request are $110,000 from the regular budget, MLA 2 specifically. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain the draft resolution, but without the financial implications as its scope is already foreseen in the freshwater programme, that is, the “Strategy for UNESCO category 1 and category 2 water-related centres” has as one of its main objectives networking and the coordinated operation of the water-related centres. A reference to “the category 1 institute UNESCO-IHE and the water-related category 2 centres” was already introduced in 34 C/6 Add. and approved by the Commission. The necessity of extrabudgetary resources for a project proposed in the draft resolution was noted by the Commission and the Islamic Republic of Iran agreed to assist the Secretariat in raising extrabudgetary funds.

32. 34 C/DR.58 (Botswana, co-sponsored by Malawi, Namibia, South Africa, Zambia, Zimbabwe, Swaziland) – The draft resolution proposed adding the words “extend support to regional projects such as SIMDAS” to subparagraph (a)(i). The budgetary implication in the amount of $200,000 was requested to be financed from regular budget and extrabudgetary resources for this programme. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain the draft resolution as amended by the Commission, adding the words “with particular attention to sub-Saharan Africa” to subparagraph (a)(i) without the financial implications to the regular programme as extrabudgetary resources would be required.

33. 34 C/DR.5 (Islamic Republic of Iran) – The draft resolution proposes to insert in subparagraph (a)(ii), after the words “the World Network of Biosphere Reserves”, additional wording “and their management; ...”, and to provide $110,000 from the regular budget, MLA 2 specifically, for this purpose in order to develop a pilot project. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain the draft resolution without the financial implications, with wording as amended by the Commission, to address the requested amendment in this draft resolution as well as wording changes requested in draft resolutions 52 and 56. It was recommended that funding be sought from extrabudgetary sources.

34. 34 C/DR.52 (Egypt, co-sponsored by Lebanon, Jordan) and 34 C/DR.56 (Egypt, co-sponsored by Lebanon, Jordan) – The draft resolutions propose additional wording to paragraph 02000, subparagraph 1(a)(ii) to emphasize management, environmental evaluation, environmental monitoring and conservation in the context of the World Network of Biosphere Reserves. The financial implications are $84,000 and $72,000, respectively, both proposed from the regular budget. Having examined these draft resolutions, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain these draft resolutions without the financial implications, noting that, as stated in 34 C/8/SC, the Director-General considers it possible to accommodate these activities within the existing programme and budget. The Commission agreed to amendments to paragraph 1 (a)(ii) to reflect the requested wording changes of these two draft resolutions as suggested by the Director-General contained in document 34 C/8/SC.

35. 34 C/DR.4 (Islamic Republic of Iran) – The draft resolution proposes to amend the wording by adding after “... and capacity-building in geosciences ...” in subparagraph 1(a)(ii), the words “including geobiology”. The budgetary implication amounts to $110,000 from the regular budget for a regional research pilot project. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution without the financial implications. The Commission recommended the amended wording proposed by the Islamic Republic of Iran. The Commission encouraged the Islamic Republic of Iran to submit a detailed internationally supported project proposal on geobiology to the IGCP Scientific Board for evaluation. If the proposal is successful, seed money – not exceeding $10,000 – could be provided from IGCP, with the understanding that extrabudgetary resources would need to be sought.

36. 34 C/DR.38 (Cuba, co-sponsored by Guatemala) – The draft resolution proposes to insert a reference in paragraph (a)(ii) to study the need for a social, economic and scientific-technological approach which will enable the rational and balanced use of renewable energies and which will contribute to climate change mitigation, food security and sustainable human development. According to the sponsor, there are no financial implications. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution but not adopt it in extenso. The Commission agreed on an amendment so that the idea expressed in the draft resolution would be accommodated in main line of action 4, fourth bullet point rather than paragraph (a)(ii). The draft resolution was amended accordingly.

37. 34 C/DR.55 (Egypt) – The draft resolution proposes to place special emphasis on environmental hazards at coasts due to sea-level rise in the Arab region in the development of institutional capacity for coastal and marine management, and requested an amendment to paragraph (a)(iii). The draft resolution has a budgetary implication of $50,000 for the regular budget. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution but without the financial implications. The Commission, however, agreed on adding a general reference to sea-level rise as a consequence of climate change, without specifying any geographical emphasis. The priority to the Arab region proposed in the draft resolution can be taken into account when the Secretariat prepares the work plans.

38. 34 C/DR.19 (Finland, co-sponsored by Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Sweden) – The draft resolution proposes a number of amendments, including modifying resolution 02000 by changing:

- biennial sectoral priority 2 by deleting the reference to a special emphasis on the basic sciences;
- the order of biennial sectoral priorities 1 and 2, and the order of the subparagraphs under (the existing) biennial sectoral priority 2.

The Commission noted that the requested amendment to the wording of biennial sectoral priority 2 was no longer applicable, as the Executive Board had recommended changes in 34 C/6 Add. that were congruent with this request. The decision on the ordering of biennial sectoral priorities in paragraph 02000 of the draft resolution for the natural sciences, together with the decision on other proposals within draft resolution 19, were postponed to the joint meeting of the SC and SHS Commissions.

39. 34 C/DR.43 (Kenya, co-sponsored by Benin, Chile, Denmark, Poland, Russian Federation) – seeks to reinforce UNESCO’s action for capacity-building in the basic sciences referred to in subparagraph (vi) [34 C/6 Add.] of paragraph 02000 through a new major action for promoting science education in the least developed countries, and strengthening national capacities of African countries in the use of biological sciences for development. The draft resolution indicates budgetary implications in the amount of $700,000 (including $400,000 through redistribution, on a pro rata basis, of budgetary resources within Major Programme II; and $300,000 from extrabudgetary resources). Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution but without the financial implications. The Commission recommended that funding be sought from extrabudgetary resources.

40. 34 C/DR.54 (Egypt) – The draft resolution calls for particular attention to women in the context of disaster preparedness and developing national and regional capacities for disaster preparedness and mitigation. The financial implication amounts to $70,000 from the regular programme. Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution but without the financial implications. There would not be financial implications as the current programme implementation will give due attention to women.

Draft resolution referred to the joint meeting of all commissions

41. 34 C/DR.39 (Brazil, co-sponsored by Guatemala, Peru, Portugal, Saint Lucia) – The draft resolution proposes to amend the draft resolution in paragraph 02000 by adding a new subparagraph after (b) to read as follows: “(c) to allocate an amount of $4,364,300 for the implementation of the IOC Programme and Budget for 2008-2009”.

This proposal is based on the Programme and Budget Resolution IOC XXIV-15 adopted by the IOC Assembly last June, requesting a net increase to the IOC budget of $1,045,000, for:

- additional investment in the area of climate change and impacts and adaptation strategies for coastal regions, specifically for the benefit of Africa, small island developing States and least developed countries: $420,000;
- additional support for the response to the risks posed by tsunamis, and specifically within actions associated with the development of tsunami early warning systems: $250,000;
- new support to provide additional actions in the prevention and mitigation of natural hazards and, in particular, to extend the level of activity, across all lines of IOC: $175,000; and
- the global reporting process for assessment of the marine environment: $200,000.

Having examined this draft resolution, the Commission recommended that the General Conference retain this draft resolution, hence expressing its support to increasing the budget of IOC from parts of the budget, other than Part II, for which a budgetary decision is to be made at the joint meeting of all Commissions. The Commission further decided to make a strong statement objecting to the general reduction in the budget of Major Programme II and the Commission called for more resources for natural sciences, including the other ISPs besides IOC.

Draft resolutions not retained

42. The Commission examined 34 C/DR.19 (submitted by Finland and co-sponsored by Denmark, Iceland, Norway and Sweden) in a joint meeting with the SHS Commission. The two Commissions decided to examine 34 C/DR.19 paragraph by paragraph. The Commission informed the General Conference that paragraphs 1 and 2 were not retained and paragraphs 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 were withdrawn by the authors.

The Commission also informed the General Conference that the draft resolution below was not retained:

- 34 C/DR 36 (Cuba, co-sponsored by Guatemala).

Budget

43. The Commission recommended that the General Conference approve the budget provision of $20,857,600 for activity costs and $35,416,700 for staff costs in paragraph 02000 for Major Programme II – Natural sciences, it being understood that this amount is subject to adjustment in the light of the decision taken by the General Conference on the budget ceiling and by the joint meeting of the Programme Commissions and the Administrative Commission.

Item 3.2 Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5)

44. At its fourth meeting on 25 October 2007, the Commission examined item 3.2 – Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5). The representatives of 23 Member States took the floor on this item.

45. In introducing this item, the representative of the Director-General (from BSP) recalled that the purpose of the discussions under this agenda item was to initiate the debate on the structure and content of document 35 C/5, focusing on a range of relevant issues outlined in document 34 C/7. He indicated that the 2010-2011 Programme and Budget (35 C/5) would constitute the second biennium of the new Medium-Term Strategy (34 C/4), and would therefore need to be prepared within the overall strategic framework provided by that document. Accordingly, the overarching and strategic programme objectives of document 34 C/4 shall continue to be implemented during this second biennial programme and budget cycle. Delegates were invited to provide their views about desirable future programme orientations and biennial sectoral priorities as well as on other aspects of the preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011, in particular the issues identified in paragraphs 3(a) through 3(l) of document 34 C/7. The representative of the Director-General observed that the list of issues was not exhaustive and was not presented in any order of priority. Finally, he drew the attention of the Commission to available information on recent programme performance as set in paragraph 1 of document 34 C/7.

46. Several delegates expressed the view that the availability of information on programme performance (progress or extent of achievement of the expected outcomes of document 34 C/4 and expected results of document 34 C/5) would be key in enabling Member States to decide on strategic changes to be made in the programme. Likewise, a needs assessment to inform any decision with respect to document 35 C/5 was deemed critical. Support for the continued application and refinement of the results-based programming approach was also expressed. Additionally, the point was made that future C/5 documents should better reflect the thematic programme approach applied for document 34 C/5.

47. One Member State invited UNESCO, in preparing the next C/5 document, to analyse and articulate its comparative advantages, especially with respect to its successful environmental science programmes, such as IOC, IHP and MAB. The suggestion was also made to improve the visibility of UNESCO through partnering with other organizations with a leading role in science and technology.

48. The need to concentrate resources on a limited number of key activities was emphasized by many Member States. Some Member States called for the development and application of sunset clauses to determine when an activity or project should be phased out. Some delegates remarked that the seven MLAs proposed in draft document 34 C/5 were too numerous and should not be renewed “as is”. They strongly pleaded for a narrowing down of the focus of the programme from the current seven MLAs to a possible range of three to five MLAs.

49. One Member State called for a new type of programming and for a new way to identify and formulate results. He explained that a solid needs assessment, notably at the country level, complemented by the setting of priorities within available resources, would be a prerequisite for the programme to stay relevant and to make a tangible impact. This would be in consonance with the ongoing United Nations reform efforts, including the “Delivering as One” pilots that equally required needs assessment and priority-setting. This should also allow a stronger focus on fewer programmes and an alignment of UNESCO’s programmatic and capacity-development work with critical national development needs. In this respect, the proposed creation of an independent advisory body of eminent scientists stemming from the recommendations of the Overall Review Committee of MP II and MP III was supported by a number of Member States. Other delegates argued to the contrary on the grounds that Member States needed to retain responsibility for the definition of the strategic orientations and priorities of the Organization. Additionally, they felt that there was no need for another programme layer that would induce significant additional costs, particularly in the context of current budgetary constraints.

50. In consonance with the conclusions of the interdisciplinary meeting held during the present session of the General Conference, there was a general agreement that the main focus of the forthcoming Programme and Budget should be on Africa and gender equality as global priorities and on the least developed countries (LDCs), the most marginalized groups, the regions of the world experiencing the greatest challenges, in particular Africa and small island developing States (SIDS). Developing countries should be the main beneficiaries of the science programmes, which should be targeted in particular on contributing to meeting Africa’s priorities as reflected in Africa’s Science and Technology Consolidated Plan of Action and on furthering gender equality and women’s empowerment. More work should be done in assisting countries to develop science and technology policies and to promote the role of women in science and technology, notably in the context of the ongoing country programming processes, including the “Delivering as One” United Nations pilots. In this connection, several Member States called for a better reflection and integration of the Organization’s science programmes at the country level in United Nations reform and common country programming processes.

51. With respect to intersectorality, one speaker felt that UNESCO should aim at abolishing the notion of sectoral priorities and recommended that for document 35 C/5 there be a common set of priorities for both the sciences programmes, preferably not exceeding three. Failing that, the demonstration should be made that appropriate links were established between the exact and natural sciences and the social and human sciences. More generally, a significant strengthening of intersectorality was called for by many delegates, especially between the two sciences programmes and the Education Sector in order to strengthen the links between science and education that should be mutually supportive, as observed by one delegate. One Member State stated that interdisciplinarity should also be implemented at the country level and that the various bodies associated with UNESCO at the country level (National Commissions, National Committees of the Intergovernmental Science Programmes (ISP), and other local authorities) would need to learn to perform better as a team, also in order to raise the profile of the Organization, within the general context of United Nations reform.

52. The view was expressed that UNESCO must focus on fostering policies that promote science and awareness-raising on the role of science and scientists in human development. Emphasis was placed by several delegates on the promotion of a culture of science, including at the grass-roots level, which should be given a prominent profile in document 35 C/5 through education for science. Such development will assist Member States in getting young people into science and encouraging them to embark upon scientific careers. The discussion also revealed that the challenge of increasing the number of people with access to safe drinking water would need to be addressed more vigorously in the next C/5 document, targeting primarily countries experiencing water scarcity problems. One speaker stated that the solutions to these problems were among the preconditions to eradicating poverty and, hence, would justify that priority be given to freshwater.

53. Beyond the general purpose of furthering the contribution of science, technology and innovation to reaching the internationally agreed development goals, including the MDGs and the EFA goals, other substantive or topical issues mentioned as deserving particular attention in preparing document 35 C/5 include:

- support for the formulation and implementation of policies and strengthening of capacities in science and technology, taking into account the needs of the socio-economic environment;
- evaluation of the effectiveness of science systems;
- science education with emphasis on partnerships and sharing of best practices;
- mathematics teaching, especially in Africa and other developing countries;
- application of remote sensing data from earth-observing satellites for integrated management of ecosystems and water resources.

54. In anticipation of the next biennial budget, virtually all members of the Commission pronounced that UNESCO should stop funding its other programmes and activities at the expense of Major Programme II, and that there should be no further cuts in the science programmes which would rather require budgetary strengthening. On another tone, the Secretariat was urged to ensure that the assessed regular budget and the voluntary extrabudgetary resources are optimally linked and that such linkage is clearly established in the next C/5 document. A better balance between staff and programme costs was also called for. Finally, one speaker referred to the current situation of the regional office in Nairobi and requested the allocation of sufficient resources so that it can carry out effectively its regional functions in science and technology for the continent.
55. With regard to the suggestion to align in a more holistic manner the regular programme resources with extrabudgetary funds, the representative of the Director-General informed the Commission that such an alignment was being vigorously pursued in the context of the new action plan for extrabudgetary resources. He pointed out however that, given their voluntary nature, it would be difficult to include extrabudgetary resources in appropriation resolutions by the General Conference. Concerning the “Delivering as One” United Nations initiative, he indicated that UNESCO was already actively contributing to the common United Nations country programming processes and to other national planning exercises through its field offices, backed up by Headquarters. He recognized that further efforts were still required to bring the science component more visibly into the UNDAF frameworks and result matrices, and indicated that steps were currently being taken by the Science Sector for a more active and systematic involvement in country programming processes. Concerning the ratio of staff to programme costs, the representative of the Director-General explained that the perception might be misleading as staff members service both the regular programme and extrabudgetary projects.

56. At the end of the discussion, the representative of the Director-General indicated that the views expressed during the debate would be faithfully reflected in the Commission’s report, which will constitute one of the reference documents that will be considered during the forthcoming Director-General’s consultations for the preparation of document 35 C/5.

73. The SC Commission examined item 3.3 – Overall review of Major Programmes II and III, jointly with the SHS Commission.

74. The representatives of 42 Member States, of one non-Member State and two non-governmental organizations took the floor.

75. The SC and SHS Commissions recommended that the General Conference adopt, for the records of the General Conference, the resolution contained in paragraph 16 of document 34 C/13, as amended orally by the Commission (see 34 C/Resolution 55).
Fully conscious that our meeting takes place at a key juncture for strengthening science in UNESCO, given the will of the Organization’s Member States to strengthen its action in these fields and to enable UNESCO to make significant contributions to United Nations-wide initiatives in various critical domains,

I

1. We have taken full cognizance of the recommendations of the Review Committee on Major Programmes II (Natural sciences) and III (Social and human sciences), of the comments of UNESCO’s Director-General and of the decision of the Executive Board thereon (176 EX/7), and the views of each programme on the Review Committee’s recommendations as expressed to the Director-General.

2. We have taken note of the follow-up ensured to date to those recommendations as reflected in draft documents 34 C/4 and 34 C/5 and, in particular, in the implementation plan submitted by the Director-General to the 34th session of the General Conference in document 34 C/13, on the basis of the work of the internal Task Force he established in 2007.

3. We have taken into consideration the nature, scope and modalities of UNESCO’s contribution to the implementation of the Consolidated Plan of Action for Science and Technology in Africa as approved by UNESCO’s Executive Board at its 177th session.

4. We have also taken note that UNESCO is currently engaged in the development of an intersectoral and integrated strategy on UNESCO’s contribution to dealing with major challenges relating to global climate change, an issue of major concern to all the intergovernmental and international scientific programmes (ISPs).

5. In that context, we wish to underline the need to take fully into account for future action the important achievements of UNESCO’s ISPs in the fields of the oceans, basic sciences, geosciences, fresh water, ecology and biodiversity and social transformations, for the advancement of scientific research, science-policy linkages, the strengthening of capacities, sustainable development, and the achievement of the MDGs and other internationally agreed development goals.

6. We emphasize that while the achievement of the objectives set out in the major programming documents referred to above could certainly place UNESCO in a much better position in the field of the natural and the social and human sciences, it also requires a higher and sustainable level of staffing and funding over the period covered by the Draft Medium-Term Strategy.

II

In the light of the above considerations, we the Chairpersons of the ISPs have decided:

7. To strengthen and enhance our shared role as a scientific advisory body to UNESCO as a whole, given the intrinsic intersectoral nature of the strategic objectives of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy and the Review Committee’s recommendations, in close cooperation with the internal Task Force established by the Director-General and the relevant international organizations with which UNESCO has a long-standing and fruitful cooperation;

8. To contribute to meeting the objectives of the implementation plan of the Review Committee’s recommendations as submitted by the Director-General in document 34 C/13, ensuring close interaction among the different scientific programmes in order to establish the appropriate specific synergies, ensure their sustainability and enhance their impact, in particular on issues relating to:
• climate change and its consequences,
• natural and human-induced hazards and disasters,
• human well-being,
• environmental sustainability (MDG 7),
• management and sustainable use of natural resources;

9. To strengthen the leading contribution of the ISPs to United Nations-wide initiatives, such as UN-Oceans, UN-Water and UN-Energy, the follow-up of the Copenhagen Summit on Social Development, the Johannesburg Summit on Sustainable Development, the production of the World Water Development reports, and the development of tsunami early warning systems;

10. To contribute to the strengthening of science education, and education for sustainable development, human and institutional capacities, the knowledge society and the linkages between science and policy and the decision-making process;

11. To contribute to establishing integrated science policies through close coordination and synergies at the international level and in particular at the national level, at this critical time when countries are giving high priority to developing science-based decision-making, and in that framework strengthen the response to the needs of Africa as expressed in the Consolidated Plan of Action for Science and Technology in Africa;

12. To strengthen the delivery of ISP’s services and products at the regional and national levels, through close interaction and cooperation with the National Commissions for UNESCO, the ISP’s National Committees, category 1 and 2 centres and UNESCO Chairs;

13. To hold periodic consultations throughout the 2008-2009 biennium on progress achieved towards the fulfilment of those major commitments, and also with a view to responding to future challenges to UNESCO’s action in the field of science.

Recommendations of the Commission concerning other draft resolutions not retained for adoption in extenso

13. The Commission informed the General Conference that the draft resolutions listed below were not retained for inclusion in extenso in the records of the General Conference.

   – Having examined 34 C/DR.47 (submitted by Dominican Republic), aiming at ensuring the follow-up to and implementation of specific projects designed to strengthen the Organization’s ethical mission in its fields of competence in order to promote the drafting and implementation of regional conventions, and which envisages a budget allocation of $60,000, the Commission recommended that the General Conference not retain the amendment proposed, on the understanding however that the Organization is fully committed to provide its technical support to the drafting of regional conventions in the field if such initiatives are taken at the appropriate regional decision-making level.

   – Having examined 34 C/DR.17 (submitted by South Africa, co-sponsored by Uganda and supported by Egypt), which requests the provision of adequate financial support to the MOST Programme and envisages that the budgetary implications are “to be decided by the General Conference in the final allocation of budgetary resources and dependent on the budget ceiling agreed upon”, the Commission recommended that the General Conference not retain the amendment proposed while at the same time recommending that the Director-General make every effort to strengthen and provide adequate financial support to the MOST programme from the regular budget and through extrabudgetary contributions for which an appeal is launched to Member States, intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations.

   – Having examined 34 C/DR.35 (submitted by Cuba and supported by Guatemala), which aims at adding a sentence to the draft resolution regarding support to be given by UNESCO to the activities undertaken in the framework of the José Martí Project for International Solidarity as well as to continue in-depth studies on universal philosophical thought and the propagation of ethical solidarity-based principles, and envisages $50,000 for the financing of these activities, the Commission recommended that the General Conference not retain the draft amendment, on the understanding that, within the limits of the resources available ($25,000), the support to the José Martí Project is already foreseen in Major Programme III, and that any further strengthening would have to be financed by extrabudgetary funds.

PART II

General Debate on item 3.1 Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4)

32. The item was introduced by the representative of the Director-General, DIR/BSP/PMR, who recalled the earlier informal discussions at the interdisciplinary meeting the conclusions of which are summarized in document 34 C/INF.18. He explained that the Executive Board discussed draft document 34 C/4 in its 176th session and made a number of recommendations contained in document 34 C/11. The Director-General had endorsed these recommendations, and hence, it was suggested to use document 34 C/11 as the basis for discussion.

33. The representative of the Director-General underscored the intersectoral and interdisciplinary approach which presided for the preparation of draft document 34 C/4, and emphasized that the five overarching objectives and the related 14 strategic programme objectives were all cast in an intersectoral perspective, with contributions jointly or individually by all sectors. Africa and gender equality have been designated as the only global priorities for UNESCO. He emphasized that the Medium-Term Strategy is strictly results-based, with clear references to UNESCO’s contribution to the achievement of internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, and with clear expected outcomes, under each of the overarching objectives and strategic programme objectives. He underscored the seamless transition between the Strategy and the biennial Programme and Budget for 2008-2009. He also highlighted the innovative approach of including a section on management for impact, seeking to apply a results-based programming and management approach, improve the quality of programme delivery, efficiency, effectiveness, accountability and transparency. He recalled that the Medium-Term Strategy was a “rolling strategy”, which can be reviewed and, as necessary, revised by the General Conference.

34. Forty-two delegations and two observers took the floor on this item. There was strong support for the new Medium-Term Strategy 2008-2013, and thus for the collective work of the Secretariat and of the Executive Board, the drafting group of which met four times.

35. Many delegations appreciated the intersectoral approach to the drafting of the strategic objectives and commended the secretariat for the progress made. However, other delegates considered that there is still room for improvement in reducing the number of priorities and in sharpening the focus of the work of the Organization. Several delegates raised the question of evaluation, stressing the need for the Medium-Term Strategy to contain information on what had not worked in the previous period, and welcomed the C/4 becoming a truly rolling strategy. One delegate mentioned the possibility to conduct external evaluations.

36. There was unanimous support for the emphasis attached to gender equality as a global priority. All delegates welcomed that Africa was given priority status in the Medium-Term Strategy and commended UNESCO’s efforts in favour of this region. Some delegates expressed their wish that the priority given to Africa and gender equality will not result in loss for other specific groups, namely the LDCs, the SIDS and youth.

37. The general orientation of Major Programme III was well received. Delegates were almost unanimous in underscoring the importance of ensuring a strong and effective link between social research and policy. There were also many references to the need of maintaining the important work of the Organization regarding ethics and science in its several dimensions, as well as addressing the emerging ethical needs. However, while some delegates valued the stimulation of research on emerging social needs as a political field of action where UNESCO must have a role, others considered there are other organizations that have the mandate to do so. While the work of the Organization on philosophy was generally welcomed and commended, a significant number of delegates regretted the decreased importance on UNESCO’s work on human rights.
38. In his response to the debate, the representative of the Director-General expressed his appreciation for the many supportive comments given to the document and assured delegates of the firm commitment of the Organization towards the two global priorities, Africa and gender equality. Regarding gender equality he reminded the objective of achieving it at the level of senior management within the Organization by 2015. He also responded by reassuring those worried about Youth, the LDCs and SIDS. And he recalled the inclusion of a new strategic programme objective on supporting countries in post-conflict and post-disaster situation.

General Debate on item 3.2 Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5)

39. Mr Jean-Yves Le Saux, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Strategic Planning, introduced the item, in accordance with the provisions of 29 C/Resolution 87 of the General Conference. He emphasized that the 2010-2011 Programme and Budget (35 C/5) would constitute the second biennium of the next Medium-Term Strategy (34 C/4) and would therefore need to be prepared in close connection with the Overarching Objectives and Strategic Programme Objectives of the Organization. He introduced document 34 C/7 and highlighted a range of issues for possible discussion.

40. Thirteen speakers including one representative of an NGO took part in the debate.

41. Several delegates stressed the need for ensuring a continuation between the Medium-Term Strategy and the future Programme and Budget. They emphasized the need for a problem-based approach and the strengthening, in this regard, of interdisciplinary and intersectoral responses by the Organization, including intersectoral platforms.

42. Several delegates stressed the need for continued application of a results-based programming approach, and for further improvement in the evaluation of results and the reporting on the results attained, especially in the C/3 document, including qualitative as well as quantitative results. It was also suggested that sunset clauses should be formulated in the next 35 C/5 to allow the phasing out of programmes and projects, and that the linkages between regular programme and extrabudgetary resources should be ensured.

43. Delegates generally expressed support for a continuation of the two priorities, Africa and Gender equality. Several speakers recommended an increase of resources devoted to Africa in 2010-2011.

44. Several delegates stressed the need for active involvement in the process of United Nations reform and United Nations-wide coherence, in particular to avoid overlaps between agencies. The role of National Commissions was emphasized.

45. A few delegates recommended a decrease in the ratio of staff to activities, as well as a relative increase in the resources devoted to Social and Human Sciences in general.

46. The Deputy Director of BSP expressed his appreciation of the debate and noted the great convergence of views among delegates concerning interdisciplinarity, the reinforcement of RBM approaches and methods, and the continuation of document 34 C/4 priorities. He recalled that Member States would also have the opportunity to express their views in the course of the 2008 consultations.

5. The Commission adopted its report at its seventh meeting, on Thursday afternoon, 1 November 2007. The report includes the Commission’s recommendations to the General Conference on each of the items on its agenda.

Item 3.1 Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (Major Programme IV – Culture)

Item 3.2 Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (Major Programme IV – Culture)

6. At its first meeting, the Commission examined item 3.1 – Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4, 34 C/11) and item 3.2 – Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5).

7. During the debate on items 3.1 and 3.2, 27 Member States and two observers took the floor. At the end of the debate on items 3.1 and 3.2, the representatives of the Director-General replied to the comments and observations made by the Commission.

8. The two documents were presented by the representative of ADG/BSP, who pointed out that the complex nature of contemporary challenges requires inputs from several disciplines, which is why UNESCO’s Draft Medium-Term Strategy (34 C/4) offers a holistic, interdisciplinary approach under a single Mission Statement, of which Culture is one of the main pillars. She further explained that in order to ensure a seamless transition between the Medium-Term Strategy and the biennial Programme and Budget for 2008-2009, the five overarching objectives and the 14 strategic programme objectives were translated into a limited number of biennial sectoral priorities under each Major Programme, and into 12 intersectoral platforms. She further referred to the recommendations of the Executive Board to the General Conference contained in document 34 C/11 which the Director-General had endorsed.

9. As to the future programme and budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5), she underlined the special importance of this debate in the light of the rolling nature of document 34 C/4.

10. The Assistant Director-General for Culture added, regarding specifically overarching objective 4, “Fostering cultural diversity, intercultural dialogue and a culture of peace”, that the main underlying principle was that cultural diversity and intercultural dialogue should be seen as intertwined. The aim was to demonstrate that culture was an indispensable tool towards development, reconciliation and sustainable peace. She further explained that strategic programme objective 11, which was entirely devoted to heritage, was based on the same premise. It was identified separately because UNESCO wanted to highlight a new holistic, hence intersectoral, approach to heritage that UNESCO has embarked upon.

11. Speakers expressed support for the Draft Medium-Term Strategy – amended by the Executive Board – as contained in document 34 C/11, especially as regards its enhanced concentration and focus, the intersectoral and interdisciplinary character of the strategy and its rolling nature. They also welcomed the two priorities of Africa and gender equality as well as the envisaged specific action for youth, least developed countries (LDCs) and small island developing States (SIDS).
12. Some speakers requested a more focused C/4 document, a rigorous assessment of achieved results and a more explicit relationship between the five functions attributed to UNESCO and their emphasis on specific strategic programme objectives and corresponding MLAs. One speaker suggested the possible merging of strategic programme objectives 9 and 10, in order to highlight the interaction between cultural diversity, development and social cohesion.

13. Most speakers underlined the outstanding importance of the recently adopted cultural conventions (the Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions – 2005, the Convention for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage – 2003 and the Convention on the Protection of the Underwater Cultural Heritage – 2001), and agreed that, in the coming years, the actual implementation of these normative instruments is a vital task. The important role of museums was also underlined by several delegates. Relating to the need to promote cultural diversity, attention was drawn to the relationships between cultural diversity and freedom of expression.

14. Appreciation was expressed for the special focus on languages and multilingualism (box 9) and their importance for the protection of endangered languages and the enhancement of indigenous cultures, but also for the promotion of dialogue among cultures. Hence the crucial role of translation was emphasized. UNESCO’s leading role in the celebration of the International Year of Languages, adopted at the 61st session of the United Nations General Assembly, was welcomed.

15. With regard to strategic objective 9, the need to clearly demonstrate that culture is an indispensable factor for sustainable development and the importance of integrating culture into national development frameworks were strongly emphasized. Several speakers underlined the importance of a systematic collection of cultural statistics and other tools for measuring culture as a resource for development; the strengthening of cultural and creative industries (including cultural tourism) was seen as a crucial element for sustainable development in contemporary societies. The feeling was expressed that popular culture should be better reflected in the Draft Medium-Term Strategy, especially in relation to young people, identity, creation, dialogue and cooperation with civil society at large. Some speakers welcomed the reintegration of the Lisbon road map on arts education into the Draft Medium-Term Strategy as proposed in document 34 C/11, since the linkage between culture and education is an important element, and a request was made for an equally enhanced integration of information and communication technologies.

16. The importance of promoting dialogue among civilizations and cultures (with special emphasis on interfaith dialogue) was underlined. Requests were made to reinforce cooperation with the Alliance of Civilizations with a view to concretizing actions proposed in the High-Level Report, especially in the fields of education, media and youth. Several representatives referred to music as an important tool for dialogue.

17. With regard to the preparation of the Programme and Budget for 2010-2011, several delegates emphasized the need to ensure the strongest possible linkage between the Medium-Term Strategy and the future Programme and Budget, continued application of a results-based programming approach, and a stronger and more visible link between regular programme and extrabudgetary resources. A call for a further reduction in the number of main lines of action in document 35 C/5 was also made and some speakers suggested the integration of sunset clauses into the document. Support was given to intersectoral platforms and the need to include culture as an essential element in all of them. It was proposed that the new intersectoral platform on language and multilingualism give attention to the links between culture and education. Several speakers requested a stronger integration of youth in the culture programme for document 35 C/5 and a further strengthening of the priorities of Africa and gender equality. The linkages between Africa and Caribbean regions should be better taken into account. Some representatives proposed to allocate additional funds for the implementation of the 2005 Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions.

18. In her response to the debate, the representative of ADG/BSP said that the call for a clearer relationship between UNESCO’s functions and programme execution, for the broader multi-stakeholder involvement, the enhanced visibility of extrabudgetary and regular programme funds, and for the results achieved regarding gender equality, would be fully taken into account in the next C/5 document.

19. The ADG/CLT underlined that the rolling character of the Medium-Term Strategy would allow improvement in the text in the light of the comments made during the debate. She further informed the Commission that UNESCO is preparing a Memorandum of Understanding with the Alliance of Civilizations; she added that several activities have already been undertaken, by the relevant intersectoral task force, in preparation of the United Nations Year of Languages 2008.

DEBATE 5

Item 5.13 Proclamation of the International Year for the Rapprochement of Cultures

36. At its sixth meeting, the Commission examined item 5.13 on the Proclamation of the International Year for the Rapprochement of Cultures (34 C/53).³

37. The representatives of 20 Member States and one observer took the floor during this meeting.

1. Statement by Switzerland on item 8.1
   Switzerland supports the organization of a new intergovernmental experts meeting, and is ready to make a new extrabudgetary financial contribution for this meeting.

2. Statement by Italy on item 8.4
   Italy in its own capacity, would like to make a statement on the question of the “virtual access” to cultural property which is mentioned in paragraph 5 of the Explanatory Note. Italy is confident that its opinion also reflects the position of the co-sponsoring countries of this resolution. Italy would like to clarify that it was not the intention of the co-sponsoring countries to make a link between the concepts of “virtual access” to cultural property and illicit trafficking of cultural property. Nor is there any such implication in the text of the Explanatory Note. The scope of the resolution is indeed to state that even if “virtual access” can represent a new useful instrument provided by modern technology, it cannot supplant enjoyment of cultural property in its original and authentic setting.

   Statement by Senegal on item 8.4
   Senegal is very pleased with the adoption of the resolution by the Commission during the general debate on the question of access to cultural goods, and would like to reaffirm as UNESCO’s actions’ founding principle the return of cultural property to their country of origin, and that access by digital means is no substitute to physical access. While Senegal associates itself with this resolution, it aims equally to invite UNESCO to assist developing countries to reinforce their museums’ capacities. In this spirit, this question shall be taken into account as an element contributing to capacity-building in favour of developing countries. The “digital access” from the standpoint of a developing country, is to enable these countries, on the one hand, to get the infrastructures giving access to the cultural objects from other societies, and on the other hand, to favour the mastery of these techniques for the production of DVDs and all associated products that generate financial resources for the benefit of museums. Senegal would like this statement to be included in the Records of this Commission.

3. Bahrain’s statement on item 5.13
   The Spring of Culture Festival, an international festival held in March 2006 and 2007, and to be held in 2008 presents international activities (in the fields of culture and the arts) from all over the world. This festival is held for one month, with free entrance to the public, to encourage the rapprochement of cultures through the presentation of international events (music, theatre, dance, exhibitions, poetry, debates, etc.).

38. After examining document 34 C/53, the Commission recommended that the General Conference adopt the resolution contained in paragraph 11 of the above-mentioned document as amended in the course of the debate (34 C/Resolution 46).

Item 5.2 Jerusalem and the implementation of 33 C/Resolution 50

Item 5.3 Implementation of 33 C/Resolution 70 concerning educational and cultural institutions in the occupied Arab territories

39. During the sixth meeting, the Commission examined, in one debate, item 5.2 – Jerusalem and the implementation of 33 C/Resolution 50 (34 C/15), and item 5.3 – Implementation of 33 C/Resolution 70 concerning educational and cultural institutions in the occupied Arab territories (34 C/16 and Add.).

40. After considering document 34 C/15, the Commission recommended that the General Conference adopt the resolution contained in paragraph 21 of the above-mentioned document (34 C/Resolution 47).

Item 5.3 Implementation of 33 C/Resolution 70 concerning educational and cultural institutions in the occupied Arab territories

41. Concurrently, after considering documents 34 C/16 and Add., the Commission recommended that the General Conference adopt the resolution contained in document 34 C/16 (34 C/Resolution 58).

42. The Commission took note respectively of the statements by Israel, the United States of America and the observer for Palestine on item 5.2 – Jerusalem and the implementation of 33 C/Resolution 50, and item 5.3 – Implementation of 33 C/Resolution 70 concerning educational and cultural institutions in the occupied Arab territories.

1. Statement of the United States of America on items 5.2 and 5.3
We would like to note our concern that not all of the instruments referred to in this resolution are relevant, but agree nonetheless to join consensus. Mr Chairman, I would like this statement to be placed in the permanent record of this meeting in its entirety. Thank you Mr Chairman.
Israel associated itself with the statement by the United States of America.
Statement of the observer for Palestine on items 5.2 and 5.3
It is true that the Israeli and United States parties have reservations about some of the references or terms of reference of the resolutions. But here I should like to say that the Palestinian party has made a great concession for the sake of consensus. Nevertheless, we are the occupied – not the occupants – and we are consequently giving much more than the other parties. The result you see merely reflects the extreme goodwill of my delegation and of my people. I should also like all of this to be placed on record. Thank you.

PART II

General debate on item 3.1 – Consideration and adoption of the Draft Medium-Term Strategy for 2008-2013 (34 C/4)

24. The item was introduced by the representative of the Director-General, who recalled the earlier informal discussions at the interdisciplinary meeting, the conclusions of which were summarized in document 34 C/INF.18. She explained that the Executive Board discussed draft document 34 C/4 during its 176th session and had made a number of recommendations contained in document 34 C/11 which the Director-General had endorsed. Therefore it was suggested that the Commission use document 34 C/11 as the basis for its discussions.

25. She pointed out that the Medium-Term Strategy constituted the programmatic framework and defined the strategic vision for UNESCO’s action for the years 2008-2013. Particular reference was made in this context to paragraph 3 of document 34 C/11 which set out a new mission statement for UNESCO, where communication and information was one of the main pillars. Africa and gender equality had been designated as the only global priorities for UNESCO. The representative of the Director-General emphasized the strong emphasis placed on interdisciplinarity and intersectorality which were key features of this Medium-Term Strategy. This engagement was reflected in the five overarching objectives for the entire Organization and the related 14 strategic programme objectives, all of which were cast in an intersectoral perspective. She noted the focus on results-based programming with the formulation of expected outcomes at the level of both overarching objectives and strategic programme objectives. She also explained that in order to ensure a seamless transition between the Strategy and the biennial Programme and Budget for 2008-2009, the strategic programme objectives were translated into a limited number of biennial sectoral priorities under each major programme, a limited number of main lines of action and related expected results, and into 12 intersectoral platforms. Finally, she referred to the rolling character of the Medium-Term Strategy, allowing for a revision every two years by the General Conference, so as to reflect new developments and emerging challenges in the Organization’s fields of competence.

26. Forty-one delegates took the floor on this item, including one non-Member State and two representatives of international non-governmental organizations. There was overall support for the proposed Medium-Term Strategy and the recommendations contained in document 34 C/11, which were referred to as a strong master plan, setting the stage for UNESCO to respond to global challenges in the coming six years.

27. There was particular widespread support for overarching objective 5: “Building inclusive knowledge societies through information and communication” and for its “genuinely intersectoral” character. Several delegates welcomed the emphasis by the Executive Board in paragraphs 108 and 112 on the critical importance of “creation, access, preservation and sharing of information” in contributing to the attainment of the Millennium Development Goals, in particular poverty eradication and sustainable development. The importance of creation, preservation and sharing of information in building knowledge societies was also reaffirmed. One delegate called for a more focused approach in the formulation of the Strategy.

28. Delegates valued the increased emphasis on intersectorality and welcomed the two strategic objectives 12 and 13 retained for communication and information: “Enhancing universal access to information and knowledge” and “Fostering pluralistic, free and independent media and infrastructures”. The important contribution of communication and information to peace-building efforts, mediation and governance was also underlined, especially in relation to strategic objective 14: “Support to countries in post-conflict situations and post-disaster situations.”

29. Many delegates welcomed the priority status given to Africa and gender equality in the Medium-Term Strategy and commended UNESCO’s efforts in this regard. The need for an intersectoral approach in addressing these priorities and for a comprehensive strategy articulated around the five overarching objectives of the Medium-Term Strategy was deemed essential. Several delegates also highlighted the importance of paying particular attention to the needs of least developed countries (LDCs), small island developing States (SIDS), as well as marginalized and disadvantaged groups, especially in the area of communication and information.

30. Several delegates stressed that universal access to information and knowledge, along with the quality of content, and pluralistic, free and independent media, were preconditions for ICTs to play an important role for development. They also confirmed that empowering people through access to information and knowledge, with special emphasis on freedom of expression, was a prerequisite for a democratic society and crucial for development. One delegate suggested underlining further the importance of freedom of expression in overarching objective 5.
31. Several delegates reaffirmed the importance of a human rights-based approach in programming. The critical importance of freedom of expression and of freedom of information as essential elements for development, poverty eradication, and the empowerment of people, and for ensuring their active participation in society was highlighted. Some speakers emphasized the need for the Organization to pay particular attention to the ethical dimensions of building knowledge societies and the societal implications, including issues related to the safety of children on the Internet. Others felt that focus should be placed on the formulation of national information policies.

32. The Medium-Term Strategy was further welcomed as a solid platform for the follow-up to the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS). Some speakers called for a strengthened visibility of UNESCO’s lead role as facilitator of the implementation of the action lines of the WSIS Action Plan, including those on “access to information and knowledge”, “media”, and “the ethical dimensions of the information society”. The need to take WSIS outcomes fully into account in future was underlined by a number of delegates. One delegate emphasized the importance for UNESCO to participate actively in the process towards enhanced cooperation as approved by the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS).

33. The importance of fostering pluralistic, free and independent media and infrastructures was reaffirmed by many delegates, who acknowledged the important role of the International Programme for the Development of Communication (IPDC) in that regard. Delegates also reiterated the need for UNESCO to address digital and knowledge divides, including between urban and rural areas, and referred to the contribution that the Information for All Programme (IFAP), after the revision of the strategy and the improvement of its effectiveness, could play in this regard.

34. In line with UNESCO’s support to countries in post-conflict and post-disaster situations by contributing to early recovery, reconstruction, reconciliation and dialogue, several delegates stressed the necessity of continuing efforts to enhance the safety of media professionals. They acknowledged the Director-General’s continuing statements condemning violence against journalists, and called for proactive action and efforts to help bring an end to impunity.

35. Several delegates raised concern regarding the protection of the digital heritage and referred to the importance of the preservation of information, particularly audiovisual productions. The importance of the Memory of the World Programme in preserving documentary digital heritage was highlighted. Some delegates called for continued UNESCO support in exploring means for low-cost digital preservation.

36. It was also emphasized that special attention should continue to be devoted to education in ICTs, capacity-building, and training of media professionals to enhance media and information literacy. The need to promote the development of multilingual and diverse local content, with special attention to cultural diversity was furthermore recognized by many speakers.

37. Delegates welcomed the engagement of UNESCO in United Nations reform efforts and the increased emphasis placed on joint and coherent action at the country level. A few speakers considered that the achievement of the goals set out in the Medium-Term Strategy would be a challenge in view of the limited resources available for their implementation. One delegate underlined the importance for the Organization to build on the results achieved in past biennia. Others underlined the importance of the results-based programming and management approach and the rolling nature of the C/4 document, which would allow a continuous evolution of and adjustments to the Medium-Term Strategy.

38. Several delegations called for the publication of a “user-friendly” abridged version of the Medium-Term Strategy to be disseminated among a broader public to enhance the public visibility of the Organization and awareness about its activities.

39. In her response, the representative of the Director-General thanked the delegates for many constructive contributions to the debate. She informed the Commission that their comments and proposals would be reflected in the report of the Commission. Furthermore she drew the attention of the Commission to the Director-General’s intention to publish an abridged version of the C/4 document for a wider audience.

40. While renewing his thanks for the high quality of the debate, the ADG/CI reiterated that the comments would be reflected in the Commission report and emphasized that the topics debated were at the heart of the CI programme as envisaged in the Medium-Term Strategy. He also reaffirmed UNESCO’s commitment to pursue its action with regard to enhancing access to information and knowledge and freedom of expression, as well as efforts to put into practice the concept of knowledge societies that are pluralistic, equitable, open and inclusive.

General debate on item 3.2 – Preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5)

41. In introducing this item, the representative of the Director-General, ADG/BSP, recalled that the purpose of the discussions under this agenda item was to initiate the debate on the structure and content of document 35 C/5, focusing on a range of relevant issues outlined in document 34 C/7. He indicated that the Programme and Budget for 2010-2011 (35 C/5) would constitute the second biennium of the new Medium-Term Strategy (34 C/4), and would therefore need to be prepared within the overall strategic framework provided by that document. Accordingly, the overarching and strategic programme objectives of document 34 C/4 shall continue to be implemented during this second biennial programme and budget cycle. Delegates were invited to provide their views about desirable future programme orientations and biennial sectoral priorities as well as on other aspects of the preparation of the Draft Programme and Budget for 2010-2011, especially the issues identified in paragraphs 3(a) through 3(l) of document 34 C/7.

42. The representative of the Director-General referred in particular to the identification of ways and means by which the Organization may continue to improve its contribution to the internationally agreed development goals (IADGs), including those adopted at the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS). He drew attention to the United Nations reform process and further highlighted the importance of identifying UNESCO’s specific contribution to common United Nations system programming at the country level. Finally, he outlined the 35 C/5 preparation process commencing with a questionnaire during spring 2008, followed by regional consultations with National Commissions whereupon the Director-General would submit his preliminary proposals to the autumn 2008 session of the Executive Board. The 35 C/5 Draft Programme and Budget would then be prepared by the Director-General by March 2009 and considered by the Executive Board at its spring session of 2009 before it would finally be submitted to the 35th session of the General Conference for approval.

43. Twelve delegates took the floor on this item, including representatives of four international non-governmental organizations. There was overall support for the continuation in document 35 C/5 of the structure and orientations contained in document 34 C/5. One delegate called for a more balanced approach in programme priorities. The following priority areas/themes were mentioned for consideration in preparing document 35 C/5: freedom of expression and freedom of the press; increased emphasis on ethics, also in relation with action line 10 of the Geneva Plan of Action of the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS); cultural diversity “of the media” and “in the media”; the promotion of multilingualism; media and a culture of peace; the role of knowledge in societal development; the role of ICTs in building knowledge societies, an area in which the Information for All Programme (IFAP) could play an active role; and support for regulators in Africa.

44. Several delegates considered that the Communication and Information Sector should continue to be an in-house advocate for intersectorality. In this context, the use of ICTs in education was seen as a major cross-cutting issue for the coming biennia. One delegate felt that further efforts should be pursued in this regard, building on the experience carried out in Asia by the UNESCO Office in Bangkok, seeking to harness the contribution of ICTs in both formal and non-formal education as well as in distance learning.

45. The development of quality content, cultural diversity and the preservation of documentary heritage were considered as critical areas for increased coordination and intersectoral work, especially between the Communication and Information and the Culture Sectors. One delegate felt that such areas involving multisectoral interventions should be better reflected in document 35 C/5.

46. Several speakers were of the opinion that to be effective, intersectorality would require specific organizational structures, dedicated staff, dedicated budget allocations, effective project management and clear lines of responsibility and accountability. The need for well-established organizational arrangements was emphasized by a number of delegates.

47. All delegates supported giving priority status to Africa and gender equality in document 35 C/5. The importance of continuing to pay particular attention to the needs of developing countries and small island developing States (SIDS) was also highlighted.

48. Several delegates considered that in view of the ongoing developments in the field of communication and information, partnerships were increasingly important in both programme implementation and delivery. Some highlighted that this strategy was consistent with the multistakeholder approach adopted for the implementation of the outcomes of the World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS). They called for increased synergies and linkages with WSIS action lines. South-South cooperation was deemed important in this regard, as was the need for closer collaboration with civil society and the private sector.

49. One delegate referring to the engagement of UNESCO in United Nations reform at the country level, suggested that efforts be made to encourage the integration of information and communication components into national development policies and processes, including the development of strategic approaches to support governments’ efforts in this regard.

50. In his reply, the representative of the Director-General thanked the delegates for their contributions and reaffirmed that interdisciplinarity and intersectorality are and will remain a priority on the agenda of the Organization. He emphasized that the Communication and Information Sector is already a lead sector in that regard having earmarked a large share of its programme resources to the intersectoral platforms contained in document 34 C/5 and having contributed significant amounts for the purpose under document 33 C/5. He referred in particular to the future intersectoral platform “Fostering ICT-enhanced learning” as an important framework for intersectoral collaboration in the area of ICTs and education. He further reaffirmed that Africa and gender equality will remain priorities and concurred with the importance of partnerships as envisaged in draft document 34 C/4.

Introduction

The Legal Committee elected by acclamation Mr Toshiyuki Kono (Japan) as Chairperson, Mr Kamel Boughaba (Algeria) and Mr Alfonso Ortiz Sobalvarro (Guatemala) as Vice-Chairpersons and Mr Pierre-Michel Eisemann (France) as Rapporteur.

FIRST REPORT

1. The representative of the Director-General informed the Committee that there had been no appeals against the conclusions of the Director-General concerning a draft resolution from a Member State with financial implications under Rule 81 of the Rules of Procedure of the General Conference.

2. Since its 29th session, the General Conference has adopted a procedure for processing draft resolutions proposing amendments to the Draft Programme and Budget. This procedure derives from an amendment introduced into its Rules of Procedure (see Rules 80 and 81).

3. The procedure established provides that the sponsors of those draft resolutions that at first sight appear inadmissible in the opinion of the Director-General may appeal to the General Conference, through the Legal Committee, to rule last instance on their admissibility.

4. An Explanatory Note was prepared by the Legal Committee in November 2000 and communicated to all Member States so that they could submit draft resolutions of this nature meeting the requisite criteria. That note has been added to by two “finalizations” adopted by the Legal Committee at, respectively, its November 2002 meeting and the 33rd session of the General Conference.

5. One member regretted the fact that the clarifications adopted by the Legal Committee at the previous session, relating to the procedure for considering appeals, which complemented the other explanatory notes, had not been included in document 34 C/2 so as to provide comprehensive information for Member States. He recalled that the Legal Committee had deliberately decided to add the clarifications adopted at the previous session of the General Conference in the form of a footnote to paragraph II.1 of the Explanatory Note for the Implementation of Rules 80 and 81, Section XIV, of the Rules of Procedure of the General Conference. The amended version of the Explanatory Note should accordingly henceforth be annexed to the C/2 document.

6. Several members asked about the scope of the competence of the Legal Committee with regard to the Draft Programme and Budget. One member asked for clarification about the application of the admissibility criteria by the Secretariat and in this regard suggested the need for clarification regarding the precise role and competence of the Legal Committee in considering and applying the admissibility criteria.

7. In response to the comments of the members, the Legal Adviser recalled the terms of reference of the Legal Committee and the circumstances in which an item on the agenda of the General Conference might be referred to it. He also recalled the specific features of the procedure for examining draft resolutions with financial implications.

8. Referring to Rule 37.1(c) and to Rules 80 and 81 of the Rules of Procedure of the General Conference, as well as the practice of the Legal Committee, the Chairperson said that the latter’s terms of reference have to date been limited to ruling on appeals, at the request of Member States, concerning draft resolutions with financial implications that at first sight appeared inadmissible in the opinion of the Director-General. He also observed that the Committee lacked authority to decide for itself to consider an item on the agenda of the General Conference. Accordingly, as no appeals had been brought by Member States, he said that the Committee did not have to examine further the item in question.

9. It was so decided by the Committee.

SECOND REPORT

1. The members commended the work accomplished during the last biennium by the Executive Board, in particular its Committee on Conventions and Recommendations (CR), in identifying, among the 31 UNESCO recommendations, those on which it should concentrate its monitoring tasks. In that connection, the members regretted the use of the terms “priority recommendations” or “priority monitoring” which could suggest that there was a hierarchy among the instruments under consideration. The Committee pointed out that the UNESCO Constitution confers the same legal status on all recommendations, even though they had differing monitoring procedures.

2. Members of the Committee referred to the practical difficulties encountered by Member States in fulfilling their constitutional obligation to submit reports on the implementation of UNESCO standard-setting instruments.

1. The General Conference took note of this report at its 14th plenary meeting on 24 October 2007.
3. Replying to several statements, the Legal Adviser spoke of the Member States’ low response rate in the various consultations on the implementation of standard-setting instruments.

4. Some members emphasized the importance of a fuller involvement of Member States in the process of drafting standard-setting instruments of UNESCO. One member regretted that the report examination procedure was essentially formal and had no effective consequences for Member States that did not fulfil their constitutional obligations in respect of the instruments concerned.

5. A member was of the view that the follow-up of recommendations dealing with issues that are also the subject of conventions adopted by UNESCO may still be considered relevant since not all States Members of UNESCO are parties to such conventions.

6. As the Secretariat had suggested that the Recommendation on the Recognition of Studies and Qualifications in Higher Education (13 November 1993) should be added to the list of 10 recommendations selected by the Executive Board, a representative of the Education Sector explained, at the Committee’s request, the reasons why it should be monitored as a matter of priority. In doing so, she added that the adoption of a convention on the subject was not being currently considered.

7. Several members noted the importance of the issue of the recognition of studies and degrees in higher education, particularly on account of the questionable practices of certain institutions in some Member States regarding the issuing of degrees. They stressed the importance of the above-mentioned recommendation.

8. One member wondered about the desirability of submitting alternative versions of the draft resolution to the General Conference in plenary meeting. The Legal Adviser, referring to the Organization’s settled practice and working methods, invited the Committee to abstain from such a procedure and thus avoid any confusion when the time came to adopt the Legal Committee’s report.

9. The Committee decided to recommend that the General Conference adopt a draft resolution on this item. 1

THIRD REPORT 2

1. The Staff Regulations and Staff Rules make provision for appeals that may be lodged by staff members against disciplinary action or an administrative decision which, in their opinion, is contrary to any relevant regulation or rule or to their terms of appointment and which they consider prejudicial to them. After all internal remedies have been exhausted, those staff members may submit their case to the Administrative Tribunal of the International Labour Organization (ILOAT), whose functional competence has been recognized by the General Conference since 1953.

2. Recognition of its jurisdiction has been extended regularly for periods of six years since 1953, excluding the years 1996 to 2001, when recognition was renewed by the General Conference for periods of two years only pending a study carried out by the meeting of Legal Advisers of the organizations of the United Nations system which concluded, in 2001, that there was no need to establish a second-tier appeals system for the administration of justice in the secretariats of those organizations. The Director-General has therefore considered it appropriate to recommend that the General Conference renew recognition for the customary period of six years, as at the 31st session, as of 1 January 2008.

3. In response to a question by a member, the representative of the Director-General said that ILOAT was, de facto, a second-tier appeals system, since there was prior intervention by an independent body within UNESCO, the Appeals Board.

4. One member asked about the number of appeals to ILOAT and how the Tribunal had dealt with them. Another member expressed concern as to the position of the staff unions on the matter.

5. Given that there were no legal obstacles to this recommendation, the Legal Committee decided to recommend that the General Conference adopt a draft resolution on this item. 3

FOURTH REPORT 4

1. Pursuant to the decision of the General Committee, this item was submitted for examination by the Legal Committee.

2. The representative of the Director-General presented the background of this item, which had already been examined at the 33rd session of the General Conference. On that occasion, the Legal Committee had expressed the

1. This draft resolution was adopted by the General Conference (34 C/Resolution 87).
2. The General Conference took note of this report at its 14th plenary meeting, on 24 October 2007.
3. This draft resolution was adopted by the General Conference (34 C/Resolution 81).

wish to consider the item once again during its re-examination at the following session. The representative of the Director-General recalled that the draft Directives annexed to document 34 C/26 were the fruit of consultations among the various parties concerned, held in order to arrive at a consensus formulation for Part IV of the Directives. At its 174th session, the Executive Board adopted the full text of the Directives including Part IV and decided to apply them for a trial period lasting until the 34th session of the General Conference, which could amend them if necessary. The representative said that one could not help being satisfied about the implementation of these Directives which, for the first time, provide a comprehensive standard-setting framework on the subject.

3. The Legal Committee held an in-depth discussion on the meaning of the Directives and the practical modalities for their application. One member strongly regretted that the Directives failed to provide sanctions for those who contravene them and considered that such a gap would affect the legal scope of the instrument. Another member stressed the need to focus on UNESCO’s visibility not only as an organization, but also as a member of the United Nations family (One United Nations).

4. To clarify the meaning of the text of the Directives and to avoid any ambiguity, the Legal Committee decided to adopt the following formal modifications:

(a) Add after the title of the Directives:
“From the [insert the date of adoption of the resolution], the use of the name, acronym, logo and Internet domain names of UNESCO shall be subject to the following dispositions:”;

(b) The second paragraph of point III.1.2 should read as follows:
“In specific cases, the governing bodies may ask the Director-General to monitor the proper use of the name, acronym and logo of UNESCO, and to initiate proceedings against abusive use where appropriate.”;

(c) Point IV.1 should read as follows:
“The National Commissions for UNESCO, except where another body has been designated by the Member States, are the competent body to deal with questions relating to the use at the national level of the name, acronym, logo or Internet domain names of UNESCO in national extensions or sub-extensions (ccTLDs), in accordance with national laws.”;

(d) In the first paragraph of point IV.3 and the first paragraph of point IV.4, replace “authorities” by “bodies”;

(e) The third paragraph of point IV.4 should read as follows:
“The Secretariat and Member States, through their National Commissions or other designated bodies, should closely cooperate, in order to prevent any unauthorized use of UNESCO’s name, acronym, logo or Internet domain names at the national level, in liaison with competent national bodies and in line with these Directives.”

5. For the same reasons, the Legal Committee adopted formal modifications to the text of the draft resolution contained in paragraph 15 of document 34 C/26 (34 C/Resolution 86).

FIFTH REPORT

1. Pursuant to the decision of the General Committee, this item was submitted to the Legal Committee for consideration.

2. One member asked about the differences between the annex to document 34 C/19 and the revised version of the annex. He noted too, with regret, that once more matters relating to the implementation of 33 C/Resolution 92, which had legal implications, had not spontaneously been included in the agenda of the Legal Committee even though they undeniably fell within its terms of reference. He also asked about the status of document 34 C/19 which did not require the General Conference to take a decision, even though it referred to the need to amend the Rules of Procedure concerning recommendations to Member States and international conventions covered by the terms of Article IV, paragraph 4, of the Constitution, expressing concern that the regulatory procedures for amending the Rules of Procedure might be circumvented.

3. The representative of the Director-General said that the section on the implementation of recommendation 25 referred to the need to amend paragraphs 4 and 5 of Article 10 of the Rules of Procedure concerning recommendations to Member States and international conventions covered by the terms of Article IV, paragraph 4, of the Constitution in order to ensure full participation by Member States in the preparation of such standard-setting instruments. The latter concern had been addressed by the General Conference in 33 C/Resolution 92. The purpose of the amendment would be to require mandatory recourse to the Special Committee consisting of technical and legal experts appointed by

Member States (category II meeting), as mentioned in Article 10, and thus to reverse the practice of recent years which had consisted in bypassing that stage in the process of drafting standard-setting instruments. He said that document 34 C/19 (Annex) Rev. differed from the original document only through the insertion of the text of 177 EX/Decision 31 and contained no substantive modifications.

4. Several members asked whether such a procedure was consistent with the provisions of Article 20 of the Rules of Procedure, which required that proposed amendments be placed first on the agenda of the General Conference. Other members doubted that it was desirable to amend the Rules of Procedure at the current session. Several Committee members noted that, with regard to its substantive aspects, the implementation of recommendation 25 would require additional analysis by the Legal Committee.

5. The representative of the Director-General stated that the matter had been placed before the Legal Committee under agenda item 6.1.

6. Following a general discussion during which, among other things, the question was raised as to the time when the amendment referred to could be examined, the Legal Committee adopted the following conclusions:

“The Committee emphasized the need to strictly comply with constitutional and regulatory procedures in the implementation of 33 C/Resolution 92.

Noting that the information indicated in relation to the ‘Status of Implementation’ of recommendation 25 seems to imply a modification of the Rules of Procedure concerning recommendations to Member States and international conventions covered by the terms of Article IV, paragraph 4, of the Constitution, the Legal Committee is of the opinion that recommendation 25 may not be examined, and much less to take a decision, during the present session of the General Conference as this item had not first – and specifically – been placed on its agenda as stipulated by Article 20 of the above-mentioned Rules.”
Annex I: Communiqués of the ministerial round tables held in parallel with the official work of the session

A. Ministerial Round Table on Education and Economic Development

COMMUNIQUÉ

I. We, the Ministers of Education of 96 countries, meeting on 19 and 20 October 2007 in Paris, thank the Director-General of UNESCO for this timely opportunity to address the relationship between education and economic development. We thank Mr Angel Gurría, Secretary-General of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), and the representative of the Youth Forum, which met prior to this session of the General Conference, for their active participation in the Round Table. We also appreciate the active participation of civil society representatives in the discussions. The Round Table addressed the following themes:

- the rights to education and development;
- the contributions of education to economic growth;
- education and sustainable development;
- partnerships for education and economic development.

All the themes are critically important for all our countries, many of which have a large proportion of young people. We also underline that education and economic development are interdependent: increasing levels of education underpin economic development, which in its turn generates resources for education. We set our discussions in the context of realizing the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and those of education for all and ensuring that education contributes to peace, broader social development, active citizenship and the promotion of human values. In an era of unprecedented change, we recognize that education systems must respond with innovative and different approaches.

II. We reaffirm our commitment to:

1. Striving for an approach to education through which:

   (a) everyone has the opportunity to realize a right that includes a quality education, which is also the basis for the realization of other rights, for social cohesion and for personal fulfilment;

   (b) quality education is inclusive, fosters equity and gender equality, and is a force for social stability, peace and resolution of conflict;

   (c) broad-based education serves to help counter extremism and terrorism by giving hope and life chances to young people vulnerable to perpetrators of violence, conflict and other forms of exploitation;

   (d) in this era of globalization, literacy and lifelong learning opportunities, which thrive on the free flow of ideas, empower people to address and manage change and take their place as citizens of the world;
(e) the impact on education of mobility and migration – whether in search of opportunities or because of displacement – is the subject of special attention and international dialogue, and concerted efforts are made to counter the negative impact of brain drain;

(f) access to education is addressed, and this right urgently realized, especially for the poorest and most marginalized, including more than 72 million children not in school and 774 million adults without literacy skills;

(g) learners enjoy safe schools and the full value of education, in its social, cultural, spiritual and personal dimensions, as well as its key role as a means of economic advancement.

2. Strengthening linkages between education and economic development, so that:

(a) increased, balanced and prioritized investment is made in the whole education system, so that all levels and types of education, from basic to higher, reinforce each other;

(b) the quality of education improves, based on sound assessment of learning achievement, sharing knowledge of such assessment, strengthening the quality of teacher training, and emphasizing literacy as the foundation of other skills;

(c) curricula respond to the new demands of the global market and knowledge economy, providing skills such as communication, critical thinking, self-confidence, science and technology education, environmental knowledge, and learning how to go on learning;

(d) within the framework of diversified post-primary provision, technical and vocational education is promoted and redesigned in order to offer both practical skills and broader competencies, opening pathways to higher education and improving employability and entrepreneurship;

(e) effective bridges are built between education and the world of work, aligning education with work possibilities in a given context;

(f) access to information and communication technologies (ICTs) is consistently increased, and ICTs also facilitate distance education, teacher training and more flexible and innovative education models for lifelong learning.

3. Sustaining development through education, so that:

(a) education transmits the knowledge, values and the skills needed to make development sustainable, in all parts of the world, especially among youth who will take charge of the future;

(b) education takes due account of the three pillars of sustainable development – environmental protection, economic development and social development;

(c) education for sustainable development is a theme in learning content and curriculum planning, across levels and types of education, based on scientific evidence;

(d) models and paths of development respect cultural and biodiversity, future generations and the planet, encouraging the pursuit of food security for all, and promoting balanced patterns of consumption;

(e) the voices of communities are heard, and cultural heritage is respected.

4. Building partnerships for education and economic development, so that:

(a) stronger local, national and international cooperation and partnerships are formed – within and between governments, intergovernmental organizations, educational institutions around the world, international organizations, the private sector and business community, local governments, civil society organizations and families – in the context of policy dialogue, and with a focus on inclusion and capacity-development;

(b) increased resources, both domestic and external, are made available to enable EFA commitments to be fulfilled, including through enhanced ODA and innovative financing mechanisms, and paying due attention to the principles of aid effectiveness and effective donor harmonization;

(c) North-South cooperation and South-South cooperation (especially in the context of the E-9 initiative and in the framework of regional organizations), as well as triangular (North-South-South) cooperation, are further enhanced, particularly with a view to sharing good practices;

(d) public-private partnerships are encouraged and developed, particularly for the benefit of youth, in support of general education, and vocational, higher education and research opportunities;
(e) common aspects of agendas and goals are acknowledged in EFA, MDGs, PRSPs, aid effectiveness, United Nations reform and collaboration, other international frameworks and agreements, and working to maximize synergy between them for education and economic development.

III. Thus we call on UNESCO:

(a) to strengthen its focus on multistakeholder cooperation in education and to ensure that links with sustainable economic development constitute an ongoing theme in its programmes and activities;

(b) to initiate a reflection process on the respective roles of the State and other stakeholders in the organization and delivery of education in contexts where the private sector is increasingly engaging in expanding access to and enhancing the quality of education;

(c) to give particular attention to the needs of the least developed countries (LDCs) in line with the outcomes of the recent ministerial side meeting on LDCs in the 34th session of the UNESCO General Conference, and to the needs of small island developing States (SIDS), taking into account the Mauritius Strategy for Implementation;

(d) to reinforce its coordination role in the United Nations Decade of Education for Sustainable Development (DESD), in education for all (EFA), and the United Nations Literacy Decade (UNLD), so that education and economic development together offer an even greater hope of a better and sustainable future.
B. Ministerial Round Table on Science and Technology for Sustainable Development

COMMUNIQUÉ

I. We, the Ministers with responsibility for science, participating or represented at the Round Table on “Science and Technology for Sustainable Development and the Role of UNESCO” held on 26 and 27 October 2007 during the 34th session of the UNESCO General Conference,

(a) Welcome the opportunity afforded by UNESCO to Member States to meet periodically, at regional and international levels, to discuss major issues in science and technology (S&T);

(b) Convinced of the vital role of S&T as major driving forces for equitable, sustainable development and as essential tools in the attainment of the United Nations Millennium Development Goals and other internationally agreed development goals;

(c) Recognize that S&T are main contributors towards meeting basic human needs, protecting the environment, coping with global climate change, promoting education and bringing about the cultural and intellectual enrichment of humanity;

(d) Also recognize that S&T face a number of specific challenges, in particular: poverty, global climate change, sustainable energy production and consumption, pollution, desertification, loss of biodiversity, natural hazards and disasters, water resources management, disposal of solid waste, health care and new diseases;

(e) Recognize that, in addition, there are emerging technologies such as nanotechnologies and biotechnologies, as well as emerging questions such as the application of information and communication technologies in science and engineering, that are relevant for the sustainability of energy and the environment;

(f) Acknowledge the unique mandate of UNESCO within the United Nations system for the promotion and development of science;

(g) Endorse the findings and recommendations of the High-Level Ministerial Round Table on “Basic sciences: the Science Lever for Development” convened in 2005, and restate them in this document for the purpose of emphasis;

(h) Acknowledge the value of the work of the Overall Review Committee for Major Programmes II (Natural sciences) and III (Social and human sciences);

(i) Fully appreciate the diversity of priorities and needs expressed during the course of the Round Table.

We have arrived at the following common positions:

II. Actions to be reinforced at the global, regional and national levels

1. Science and technology for sustainable development: emerging and inherited challenges

   (a) Bridging the technological divide is a major challenge for the international science community, and the immediate challenge is the development of a global access system making use of a range of modalities that are to be carried out.

   (b) Public-private partnerships are to be reinforced, with the involvement of small- and medium-sized enterprises where appropriate.
Optimized use should be made of a diversity of approaches to S&T, and the use of innovative models and appropriate benchmarking, for science-industry partnerships involving all stakeholders (universities, private sector, government, research and financial institutions, and non-governmental organizations).

There is need for adequate stable and continuous funding for research and long-term studies.

Greater emphasis should be placed on the basic and engineering sciences: the foundation for the development of a knowledge-based economy.

Science education is of fundamental importance, and must be promoted at all levels, and with greater emphasis on informal education for public outreach.

Innovative approaches should be developed and adopted to attract young people to the study of science and mathematics, and to pursue careers in research.

Pre-service and in-service teacher training in science and mathematics is to be strengthened so as to invigorate science education.

There needs to be better integration of science education, research, and commercialization to foster innovation in a knowledge society.

Human capacity-building with special emphasis on graduate and postgraduate training is vital for national development through S&T, and there should be investment in capacity-building in higher education for the purposes of improved assimilation, application of emerging technologies and sustainable development.

Gender equity should be emphasized at all levels of science education and for the pursuit of careers in science and engineering.

There is need to popularize and demystify science among the public at large, and especially among the young.

Scientific knowledge should be complemented by traditional knowledge wherever appropriate, and the benefits of such synergies should be equitably shared with traditional knowledge societies.

The ethical dimensions of S&T require increased commitment at all levels, including planning and implementation of research, dissemination of knowledge, technology transfer and public awareness.

There is a need for policy advice and capacity-building for formulating, implementing and evaluating S&T policies and systems, through national and international cooperation.

New partnerships in S&T, and new modalities of cooperation with and among developing countries, are required, with increasing emphasis on South-South and North-South-South (triangular) cooperation.

Improved affordability and access to scientific education, in particular in the developing countries, can be achieved through greater use of free courseware, digital libraries and distance-learning technologies.

Brain drain affects many national scientific communities. New modalities should therefore be developed to respond to the phenomenon in a manner that benefits the affected countries and that encourages global brain circulation.

Institutional capacity-building can be enhanced, inter alia, through regional cooperation and the establishment of centres of excellence, institutional networking and the sharing of resources and infrastructures.

Intellectual property rights should receive due attention in the field of S&T.

Regional and international cooperation should be catalysed in key areas of S&T in response to development agendas.

In addition, we also put forward the following:

III. Concrete recommendations to UNESCO

UNESCO should reinforce its policy work aimed at giving guidance and providing best practices for the formulation of national policies in S&T research, building research capacities in S&T, and defining appropriate national innovation systems.
(2) UNESCO should help and encourage consensus building and intergovernmental commitment in the bridging of the technology divide.

(3) UNESCO should dialogue with donors for funding projects which require inputs of S&T for developmental needs.

(4) UNESCO should broker knowledge banks to facilitate information and data sharing.

(5) UNESCO should develop an enabling platform for affordable and accessible technologies.

(6) UNESCO should make all possible efforts to facilitate and promote the better understanding by decision-makers of the positive role that science, technology and their commercial application play in the economic development of nations.

(7) UNESCO should interact with other international agencies to develop national sustainability indicators for developmental purposes, as well as innovative benchmarking models for measuring research and development (R&D) outputs.

(8) UNESCO should pay special attention to S&T in Africa and to strengthen the links between its programmes and the initiatives of the African Union, NEPAD, and the regional economic communities.

(9) UNESCO should create international fora for the exchange of best practices in the teaching of science and science curriculum development both in schools and at universities.

(10) UNESCO, as part of building awareness of S&T, and their role in the global development plan, should consider proposing S&T as a theme for the United Nations General Assembly.

(11) UNESCO should convene the Ministerial Round Table on a regular basis, and facilitate exchanges in the intervening period.
